Car Strikes Tree, Driver Fatally Hurt

Lawrence "Junior" Wilson, 21, East Prairie, died today at 3:30 a.m. in the Missouri Delta Community hospital, as result of a brain concussion received in an auto accident, three hours earlier.

He was driving a 1955 Ford on Martin street, in East Prairie, when he lost control, when the car left the street and struck a tree.

Miss Annie Woodworth, 18, East Prairie, a passenger, was injured seriously.

Wilson was born in Ridgley, Tenn., Jan. 31, 1948, son of Mrs. Josie Wilson, and the late Lawrence Willard Wilson.

He had been in the army stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood.

Besides his mother, he is survived by three brothers, William, Willard and Jimmy Wilson, all of East Prairie.

Services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. in Shelby Funeral Chapel in East Prairie with the Rev. Darrell Jauch, pastor of the First Baptist church, in East Prairie officiating.

Burial will be in W.O.W. cemetery in East Prairie.

Kathy Hendrix, 15, Farmington, passenger in a 1968 Camero, driven by Darrell Pierce, 17, Potosi, died early today in Cardinal Glennon hospital in St. Louis as the result of an accident Saturday.

The accident occurred on highway 32 in Iron county, when young Pierce lost control of the car and ran into a ditch.

Three Wappapello residents were injured Thursday at 6 p.m. on route T, 200 yards south of Wappapello Dam.

A 1963 Ford station wagon, driven by Rose Kern, 38, Wappapello, ran off the road, down an embankment, and overturned three times.

The driver received a fractured left arm, cuts and bruises. Harold Null, 16, received a fractured ankle, cuts and bruises.

David Kern 20, another passenger, received head and internal injuries, and his condition was listed as critical.

The three were taken to Lucy Lee hospital, in Poplar Bluff.

James Wright, 16, route three Kennett, was injured Thursday at 6:40 a.m. on a township road, one mile east of Kennett.

He was driving a 1965 Chevrolet, when he lost control in loose gravel, left the road and went into a ditch.

He was taken to Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett, where he was treatedfor cuts on his head.

Taxpayers Will Stage Protest March Monday

BENTON - A taxpayer protest march is being planned for Monday morning on the Scott County Courthouse and board of equalization in an attempt to get the county court to rescind the $7 million increase in tax assessments in the county as ordered by the state tax commission.

Abram Hirschowitz, Oran, who is organizing the march and who two weeks ago helped organize the Scott County Tax Association, said the march will be made at 10 a.m. in front of the courthouse. Hirschowitz, who served as chairman of the tax association until Wednesday night when he lost an election to Butch Heisserer, Illmo, said this march is not being made by the tax association. "It is just a group of taxpayers," Hirschowitz said.

He made no estimate of the number of taxpayers he expects to take part in the march. Hirschowitz said they will not have a lawyer because of lack of money.

The tax association is planning to appear before the county court with legal course requesting the same thing, but no date has been set. A committee is attempting to hire an attorney today.

The association met Wednesday night and it was announced Sikeston Attorney John Hux had consented to request the organization.

Jim Green a partner in the Hux-Green law firm, said yesterday the firm could not represent the group.

Bond Issue Involved In Plant Location

City Attorney Manuel Drumm conferred today with officials of National Lock Hardware regarding an estimated $750,000 general revenue bond issue to construct a building for the new industrial plant.

City Manager W. Raymert Miller said this morning the exact amount of bonds has not been determined or has it been determined when a bond issue vote will be held.

Plans call or the company to lease the building from the city for a fixed number of years until the cost of the facility has been paid. Unofficial reports were that the lease would be for 20 years.

Although the issue requires voter approval published reports stated that there would be no increase in taxes. The new plant facility, which will manufacture residential door locks, will be built west of Merrick Mobile Homes on highway 61 in the southeast corner of Sikeston.

A date for the bond issue vote could be set by the city council Monday night.

Nixon Urged to Halt Imports of Shoes

BY E.J. MAYS
State Editor

SIKESTON — Missouri senators and the representative of the Bootheel are moving to force action by President Richard Nixon to halt the influx of shoe imports from Puerto Rico, Japan and Taiwan that an industry check shows reportedly cost American workers the loss of some 64,200 job opportunities, during 1968.

Senators Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton and Congressman Bill D. Burleson said that they had written the president asking him to negotiate a voluntary agreement with these countries that would lower their shoe imports.

The trio had been besieged with letters from 376 workers at the Brown Shoe Co. plant at Bernie, along with hundreds from other Brown plants in the Bootheel, where production had been cut to four days a week, attributable to the imports.

The Bernie plant is the only Brown plant in the Bootheel now maintaining a five- day work schedule, Bernie plant manager Charles Stanfill said.

Also affected by imports is the Inland Shoe plant at Parma, which is slated to close, following completion of a 8-10 day work schedule, which begins Monday. More than 100 Parma plant employes had jobs terminated last week.

At the Advance Inland plant, some 125 employes are on a brief layoff period according to Manager Ivan Francis, who said the layoff is "due to movement of machinery to enable the plant to install machines that will finish Puerto Rican imported shoes. These Puerto Rican imports are allegedly almost completely finished with only a few minor stitchings to be made. The Stitchings are left unsewed so the shoes can be imported at a lower tarriff rate than that collected on finished shoes, shoe experts advise.

Francis said that "we (Advance Inland) have some machinery on the high seas and when it arrives we will employ some 8-10 additional men to handle the import completion."

Neither Brown nor International Shoe of Sikeston will handle any imports, according to plant officials.

The senators and Congressmen said they had written Nixon for his immediate attention in remedying the present leather and vinyl shoe import allowance and, if action isn't forthcoming they would take the matter into committee in both the House and the Senate."

Bootheel shoe workers, especially those at Brown and Inland sites are at odds with Senator Eagleton as a result of a letter from him that they say "intimated that the shoe industry could not expect any special treatment but would have to go along with other commodities and accept the import setup. Failure to do so would disrupt the balance of world trade," they say Eagleton contended.

Eagleton refutes this claim, asks that a letter he sent Bernie voters sets out the fact that he, along with Senator Margaret Chase Smith, had urged the president to attempt to negotiate a voluntary and mutually agreed upon restraint in regard to the import of non-rubber footwear imports.

The letter, as sent by Senator Eagleton:

Mr. Harold L. Stafford
President, Chamber of Commerce
P. O. Box 158
Bernie, Mo. 63822
Dear Mr. Stafford:

As you perhaps know, the Tariff Commission, at the request of the President, conducted a comprehensive investigation of the effect of non-rubber footwear imports on domestic industry. The Commission's report, dated January 1969, indicated that there was not present a valid industry - wide case for actual or threatened injury from non-rubber footwear imports.

The Commission found that expenditures for new plants and equipment had continued an upward trend for firms in every size category from 1964-1967; that quantity and value of shipments had risen substantially in 1968; that industry profits had risen materially since 1963, aided by higher prices; and that business failures in the industry had declined sharply from the level of the 1950's and early 1960's. In the period 1963-1967, the ratio of net operating profits to annual sales had increased by 35%. In fact, in 1968, there was some evidence of a labor shortage.

I realize that some smaller firms are experiencing some financial difficulty. In part, their difficulties may be due to import competition. But competition from the larger domestic producers, continually changing styles, and management problems may also be contributing to this situation. Where there is injury from imports, I believe that effective relief should be made available. For example, the present criteria for relief under the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 have been too rigid. These should be amended to enable firms to obtain relief when merited. In addition, I have joined with Senator Margaret Chase Smith and others in a letter urging the President to attempt to negotiate voluntary and mutually agreed upon restraints in regard to non-rubber footwear imports.

However, as a general proposition, I believe the case against trade restriction measures is strong. Quotas interfere drastically with market forces and are the antithesis of the basic concepts of a free-enterprise economy; the arithmetic criteria contained in most orderly marketing proposals bear no necessary or certain relationship to the needs of any industry for protection. The restrictions would havy an inflationary impact which would not only be detrimental to consumer interests, but would also weaken the ability of U.S. producers to compete in world markets. The latter effect is clearly inconsistent with our campaign to expand exports and improve our balance of payments position. Moreover, U.S. export would be badly hurt by retaliatory foreign measures should we impose restrictions on our imports.

Missouri produces many agricultural exports such as soybeans, feed grains, wheat and industrial exports such as transport equipment, non-electrical machinery, chemicals and allied products. If foreign nations were to impose retaliatory tariffs against our exports, Missouri would have much to lose.

Once again, thank you for writing.

Sincerely,
Thomas F. Eagleton
United States Senator

The letter from the Bernie Chamber of Commerce, asking relief, follows:

Honorable Thomas F. Eagleton
U.S. Senate
Washington, D.C. 20025
Dear Senator Eagleton

The Bernie Chamber of Commerce would like very much to go on record as being in favor of curbing the number of imported footwear in this country. We feel the Shoe industry needs your support thru legislature in this matter.

The Steel, Oil, Meat and other industries have been helped thru these channels and we strongly support our local shoe factory, which employs 415 people in a town with a population of 1578. What other industry has moved so many jobs to rural areas as the shoe industry? I challenge you to name one.

We don't ask that imports be stopped, we only solicit your aid in curbing imports so our rural areas can maintain their present rate of employment.

Sincerely
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
Harold L. Stafford, Pres.

The shoe manufacturers set forth the facts, compiled in a special research that some 168,600 job opportunites in the shoe manufacturing business can be lost by 1975, unless some of the exports are stopped.

According to their recordings some 96 million pairs of shoes -- 15 per cent of domestic production came into the U.S. in 1966; 129 million pairs or 22 per cent in 1967 and 175 million or 27 per cent in 1968. By 1970 imports, unless some equalization is effected, 220 million pairs, representing 35 per cent of the domestic U.S. production will come from imports and by 1975 a whopping 90 per cent, or 468 million pairs will be imported. Most of the 1968 imports, some 88 per cent, came from Puerto Rico, Italy, Spain and Taiwan but imports from Communist countries are increasing the shoe manufacturers point out.

Ready for Live TV from Mars?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Today, the moon: tomorrow, Mars?

Capping an incredible month in the history of mankind, a month marked by man's first footprints on the moon, will be live television pictures from the mysterious red planet, Mars.

Two Mariner spacecraft, numbers 6 and 7 in the series, will fly past Mars on the mights of July 30 and August 4. Each will be about 2,000 miles from the planet at encounter.

Mariner 6, launched from Cape Kennedy on Feb. 24, will have flown a total of 241 million miles in 156 days. Communications distance from Mars at encounter will be 59.5 million miles - about 5½ lights minutes.

Mariner, 7, launched March 27, will have recorded 197 million miles in 130 days.

Both spacecraft were boosted into space by Atlas-Centaur launch vehicles. The Mariner missions are conducted for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasedena, Calif.

The two craft are taking pictures which could be the most exciting yet, as they carry cameras that can show features as small as 900 feet across - compared with the two-mile resolution of Mariner 4 in 1965.

Space scientists say they are sharp enough to pick out canals, pyramids, ruins, temples or geometrical patterns that might be signs of past civilizations on Mars. Most scientists doubt there is any higher form of life on Mars, however, the 21 pictures televised by Mariner 4 showed a barren, crater-pocked landscape, much like the moon.

Mariner 6 will examine the equatorial regions of Mars. Mariner 7 will cover some of the same area, but will concentrate on the southern heimsphere and a portion of the south polar cap. Together, they are expected to furnish data as different as possible from the standpoint of geography and climate.

The pictures may well chart the course of man's personal exploration of space through the 1980s. But final proof of whether even simple forms of life exist on Mars will have to wait until later missions.

Two Mariner - class vehicles are scheduled to orbit Mars for three months in 1971. Two years later, two Viking spacecraft are to orbit Mars and detach vehicles which will descend and sample the surface.

Hearnes Explores Feasibility Of Special Session This Fall

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has started exploratory talks with legislators and fiscal experts to determine whether a special legislative session would be feasible this fall.

The first conference was held Thursday with Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D- Columbia, Senate majority leader; Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis, Senate Ways and Means Chairman,and Rep. E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D Overland, House Appropriations Chairman.

Also present were Comptroller John C. Vaughn, Arthur W. Betts, the legislative fiscal affairs officer, and two representatives of the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, Ed Staples and Robert Knuth.

The governor is deeply concerned about the state's fiscal outlook.

"I tell you, it's keeping me awake night," he told friends recently.

The problem is that when the Legislature meets in its annual budget session next year, it will face the urgent necessity of raising at least $90 million in new revenue, anyway you figure it. That is the conservative estimate. Others range up to $114 million.

The state is already a year behind in new capital improvements at state colleges, universities and hospitals because the 1969 Legislature appropriated no money for this purpose.

In addition, the 1970 Legislature will face the immediate problem of raising $35 million more to finance the increased school foundation formula it adopted this year. It calls for a $35 million a year boost each year for four years.

A controversial cigarette tax increase was passed this year to raise about $31 million for the first year with the rest to be made up from existing balances. There is no money in sight for this purpose next year.

Even though the money needs will get sharper as time goes on, the governor feels it would be useless to call a special session that would cost about $250,000 unless the votes can be lined up to get revenue bills through the senate.

A NATIONALLY KNOWN chain reportedly is going to build a motel behind the Post House restaurant west of Miner. It is expected that land developer Charles Conn will make an announcement in September.

District Attorney Applies for Inquest Into Drowning

BULLETIN

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the state Superior Court rejected flatly today a request for an inquest into the death of Miss Mary Jo Kopechne.

Miss Kopechne, 28, was the secretary who drowned when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car plunged off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast July 18.

Tauro's secretary said the justice based his decision on the contention that jurisdiction in the matter rests with the District Court system, rather than the Superior Court.

The District Court is one step below the Superior Court in the makeup of the Massachusetts judicial system.

The inquest had been sought by Dist. Atty. Edmind Dinis.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis has applied for an inquest into the drowning of a girl secretary in a car accident involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy—and has drawn a rebuke from the judge who will rule on the request.

Dinis said Thursday he had sent the application to Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the state Superior Court.

Declaring that the first he heard about it was from the press, Justice Tauro described the timing of the announcement as "bad judgment at the very least" and said: "I can't comment on it until I receive it. I'll have plenty of comment at the right time."

Dinis is district attorney for the Southern District, which includes the Martha's Vineyard area where the drowning occurred July 18. Until now, he had stayed clear of the investigation, which led to a charge against Kennedy of leaving the scene of the accident, fatal to Miss Mary Jo Kopechne, 28.

Like the senator, Dinis is a Democrat. But he is not regarded as a member of the party's dominant Kennedy wing. He ran unsuccessfully for Congress last year.

Miss Kopechne was trapped in Kennedy's car when it plunged off a narrow bridge into a tidal pool on Chappaquiddick Island. Dr. Donald R. Mills, the district medical examiner, pronounced her death due to drowning.

Dr. Mills said he reported the death to Dinis' office, and reached an agreement that no autopsy was needed.

Critics of the senator have expressed dissatisfaction with his explanation of why he left the scene of the accident without reporting it to the police until the following morning.

In an interview Thursday night on the television program "The CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite," Ted Sorensen, a Kennedy adviser, said that as the senator himself had declared "his conduct that night is inexplicable."

"His conduct during those hours after the accident was fully summed up in the most humiliating kind of language in his presentation," Sorensen said. He referred to a telecast in which Kennedy asked his Massachusetts constituents to say whether he should quit the Senate.

"He would agree with you that he should have gone and gotten help that night now that he looks back on it," Sorensen said. "Of course he should have."

Interviewer Robert Shakne asked Sorensen why Kennedy crossed from his hotel in Edgartown back to Chappaquiddick to make a call to his lawyer the morning after the accident.

In his own telecast after the accident Kennedy said, "I regard as indefensible the fact that I did not report the accident to the police immediately.

Man Refuses to Pay for Gasoline

Robert Freeman Jr., an employe of Up-Town Shell Service Station, 131 South Kingshighway, reported to police last night that a man left the station without paying for 50 cents worth of gasoline.

Mrs. Rose Lee Marsh, 328 Sunset, reported last night that a 20-inch Silver Flyer bicycle was stolen from her home about 9:22 p.m. The bike has a red and white banana seat.

One Held After Two Breakins

Police report they have one main in custody in connection with a breakin at the Wagon Wheel bar, 849 west Malone, and burglary at the Hut, 851 west Malone.

Articles taken from the Hut include 17 cartons of cigarettes and $5 in change.

Thieves vandalised $7 worth of coffee and jimmied open the locks of a pinball machine and a juke box. Entrance to the Hut was gained through a back door.

The thieves also broke into the Wagon Wheel bar next door but were routed by police before they could take anything. The thieves were discovered at 2:30 a.m. this morning by police.

Five Treated For Injuries

Five patients were treated Thursday at the Missouri Delta Community hospital, emergency rooms:

Patronage Rising at Jaycee Pool

By KEITH HALL

The Jaycee swimming pool's history is a shakey as a bowl of gelatine. Attendance, and income rose and fill with the advent of racial integration.

The pool was constructed in 1933 by the Works Progress Administrative and managed by the city government. Attendance to the pool was limited to whites until 1954.

A United States supreme court ruling in 1954 ended racial segregation in public facilities. In order to maintain racial segregation the city sold the pool, in 1955 to the Jaycees.

When segregation was retained pool attendance was high and a small profit was divided between the city and the Jaycees. During the 60s, the high profits splits were: $1,043.61 in 1960, $993.09 in 1962, and $1,497.49 in 1964. The days of profit-sharing came to a halt with the final thrust of racial segregation unwraveling in 1965.

The passage of the civil rights act of 1964 ended all segregation of publicly used facilities, whether private or publicly owned.

No other publicly used facility felt the whiplash of this bill as much as the Jaycee swimming pool. Attendance dropped. A total of $2,583.17 was lost that summer.

The climb up from the pool's depression of 1965 has been long and slow.

The average maintenance cost of $6,500 has kept the pool from making a profit. The money taken in from admission prices since 1965 have been $6,957.04, in 1966, $6,124.88 in 1967, and $6,832.99 in 1968.

Mike Gallagher, 411 Sikes, pool manager, who has been working at the pool for three years, says the pool, attendance is higher this summer than it has been since he started in 1966. Frank Harp, 205 north Standard, pool committees treasurer, sees a profit this summer with the increase in attendance if there aren't any major mechanical difficulties with the pool's filtering system.

The pool is a community asset. The other nearest swimming facility is in Dexter. Many of 200 children, who use the pool daily, wouldn't be able to travel that far. The pool remains open for this reason according to Keith Ziegenhorn, former swimming pool committee chairman. Ziegenhorn served nine years on the committee and worked to keep the pool open even though it was operating at a loss.

Twelve young men and women hold the lifeguard positions of the pool for token wages. The average wage is 95 cents an hour.

Assistant manager, at the pool is Becky Wagner, 1015 North Kingshighway. Gallagher receives $60 a week and Miss Wagner $55 a week for operating the pool.

Even though the organized activities of the pool are few the turnout is large.

The Kiwana club sponsored swimming lessons for children seven to 12, during June. The cost of the lessons was $3 for 10 days. Three hundred and fifty children turned out for the lessons.

Gallagher and Miss Wagner who hold Water safety instruction certificates, had a turnout of 29 for senior and junior life saving courses.

The Jaycees offered free adult swimming class taught by Gallagher during July. Thirty-five attended.

Warren Manning, Scott County Sanatarian, says the filtering system is keeping the chlorine and bacteria count in the water within health department requirements. Manning checks the water twice a week.

He said he is amazed at the efficiency of machinery maintains considering its age.

The end of the season is in sight, the pool closes Labor Day.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Can a man afford to become known as the meanest man in town in order to save three or four hundred dollars a year?

NOT EVERYONE PAYS

Most people understand the need for taxes and accept the burden of tax payments as a necessary duty of citizenship. This holds true even when temporary financial difficultues are encountered which require the sacrifice of some personal or family needs in order to make tax payments.

Trouble arises when taxes get so high that payment becomes impossible or when taxes force a businessman to price himself out of the competitive market. The number of tax losses of this kind are on the increase.

For example, a total of $2,149,842,000 in past due taxes remained uncollected by the Internal Revenue Service at the end of 1968. This total included taxes described as "delinquent," in the amount of $1,586,611,000, taxes described as "uncollectable" in the amount of $326,787,000, and taxes which were "abated" in the amount of $236,444,000.

As of December 31, 1968, employment tax delinquencies were $339,428,000. This is the total that spells out the tragic trouble, because it represents amounts withheld from an employe which were never paid to the tax department. In most of these cases the reason was a failing business.

At the close of 1968 a total of 859,617 taxpayers were delinquent, 252,622 owed taxes that had been charge; off by the IRS as uncollectable, and taxes had been abated for 131,025. Tax abatements include compromise settlements, reductions by reason of court decisions, and recomputations.

In short, local, state and federal governments must be aware that there is a limit to what most American taxpayers can divvy up-- and God save this nation the day that the taxpayers really revolt against the constant tax increases fostered by politicians and their greedy cronies who ride the gravy train.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK AND RED CHINA

The strange and tumultuous news coming out of mainland China during the last few months should lay to rest a great many myths that have been carefully nourished over the years since the fall of the Chinese mainland to the communists.

We were told that the Red Chinese regime was solid, united and lasting, and certainly in no danger from popular upheaval. But it is now clearly, deeply divided among several contenders for supreme power. Popular uprisings continue all over China; some in support of one or another of the contenders for power; some apparently in opposition to all of them.

We were told that Red China might be wooed into sweet reasonableness and even a degree of cooperation with the West, especially if Peking's ties with Moscow could be loosened. But now Peking's ties with Moscow are virtually broken and the Red Chinese leaders are more fanatically anti-Western than ever.

Above all, we were told that Chaing Kaishek and his Nationalists of Free China on Formosa were finished historically and could never make a comeback. For years the supposedly all-knowing "experts" advising on our Asian policy, in the State Department or affiliated with it, have openly scoffed at the notion of Chiang Kai-shek ever returning to power.

As mainland China descends deeper and deeper into turmoil and chaos, the return of Chaing Kai-shek is becoming a very real possibility. With more consistent support from us he might have returned already. In any case, his great opportunity is at hand, and so is ours, to regain China for the free world.

We noted a New York Times syndicated article in The Kansas City Star just before July 4th that criticized the increasing number of Americans who display the flag as being right - wingers and opposed to progress as defined by a few so-called intellectuals.

Well, for those who think the great New York Times doesn't slant the news (?) to their own purposes, we would like to see one kind word for the Arabs in this newspaper -- even in its news columns.

But back to this criticism of flag-wavers, we wish the news staff of the New York Times would just once in awhile find something good about the sincere and honest average American who works instead of living on welfare, serves our nation in war instead of burning draft cards and the flag, and teaches his family to respect the rights of others and to salute the flag as the symbol of our Constitution and freedom.

The fact is that without the flag-wavers in the U. S. neither the New York Times nor any other newspaper would be in business for long.

For every highway accident that occurs, the National Safety Council estimates there are probably dozens of "nearmisses".

The Council attaches great importance to these "almost-accidents" because they contain all the ingredients of a crash except the collision. Documentation of near-misses can do much to supplement information obtained from accident reports, says the Council, which uses this data in studying the causes of accidents. And it's only after accident causes are established that accident prevention can begin.

Every year, the railroad industry sends the Council a summary of near-miss reports turned in by its train crews. There were more than 600 such reports last year and, according to a Council spokesman, "we're only seeing the tip of the iceberg."

The Council uses data from these reports to determine proper direction for some of its educational programs. For example, more than a fourth of the reports from last year involved train/schoolbus near - misses, indicating that schoolbus drivers need more education in safety procedures at railroad crossings.

Right now, the only regular near-miss reports come from the railroads. Such a procedure would also be valuable in preventing accidents throughout the highway system, however, and there are thoughts of enlisting the aid of large schoolbus and truck fleet operators -- as well as police -- in setting it up.

Even so, each individual is his own best accident-preventer. The best advice, of course, is to drive in such a way as to avoid even a near-miss. But when one does occur -- and it will -- take the time to analyze why you were so close to an accident.

The lesson learned from this bit of introspection could save your life.

WE'VE HEARD IT ALL

A recent issue of a national magazine carried an article about the growing trend to display of little decals of the American flag. The Old Glory decals have been around for quite some time. In fact, the report mentioned above showed a photograph of a 48- star flag decal on a shopowner's window. The man who owns the store installed it at the time of Pearl Harbor. There were a lot of window stickers in evidence during World War II. Patriotism was a guiding force during those years of ration stamps and priorities.

Another national magazine distributed 18-million flag decals in February this year, and the program was such a success that other companies and institutions began to follow its lead It soon became a common sight to find flags on cars and homes and store windows again. The radio antenna pennants are making a comeback, also. We think all this is good; we'd like to see it grow even more.

We disagree ith Georgia legislator Larry Thomason who, according to the article, called the whole business "an obscenity." He claimed that if the flag is sacred it should not be displayed along with other decals of a commercial or comic nature. This is like knocking a man for planting roses along the highway near the billboards and traffic signs. Does Mr. Thomason mean that no private company should fly a flag over its building, until having made certain that there is no sign that might convey commercialism? Perhaps he has forgotten that this country was built on a base of commercial endeavor. His salary is paid by the free enterprise system and the taxes of free men.

The strangest observation in the article on flag decals were from former baseball star, Jackie Robinson. Said he: "When I see a car with a flag pasted on it, I figure the guy behind the wheel isn't my friend." We hope he was misquoted; if not, we've heard it all.

The man who fails in his efforts to do something well is still more of a success than the one who never tries.

It was noted in a National Association of Manufacturers' publication that although garbage disposal is hardly a glamor subject, it is the third most expensive service in all communities and is worthy of taxpayers' attention. According to a recent report by the U. S. Public Health Service, in 148 Americans only discarded about two pounds of trash a day. In 168, they averaged some five pounds a day.

The National Association of Manufacturers was noted as posing the question, "What does it cost to create a job in industry?" And, then they went on to answer, "A lot depends on which industry you're talking about. The average investment behind each job for all U. S. manufacturing companies is getting close to $25,000. In some fields, such as chemicals and petroleum it's nearer $75,000 for each production worker."

WOULD YOU BELIEVE . . .

An Ohio state legislator has proposed a bill that would allow a person to have an asterisk placed beside his name in the telephone directory to indicate that he did not wish to be bothered by calls from people trying to sell him something. The idea would undoubtedly elicit ringing approval from a lot of telephone subscribers. To professional phone solicitors, however, it must sound like one hell of a lousy suggestion.

NSC LOOKS AT SNOWMOBILE ACCIDENTS

The experiences of the present snowmobiling season have helped the National Safety Council gain a better perspective on the safety hazards of this popular form of winter recreation and he vehicle used.

John Fleming, Manager of the Council's Public Safety Department, feels that, while not all accident information filters into the Council headquarters, certain conclusions can be made from what information is available.

"On the basis of the reports we have studied -- involving some 25 fatalities and numerous injuries - it appears," said Fleming, "that the greatest danger comes from collisions with other motor vehicles and drownings as a result of ice breakthroughs." "There have," he said, "been many complaints of snowmobiles being operated illegally on railroad and traffic right-of-ways."

Some states do require registration of snowmobile vehicles, but most states have only limites snowmobile regulations and relatively minor penalties for violations. Snowmobile owners should find out their state's laws and conform to them--for their own safety.

"A number of fatal and injury-producing accidents can be attributed to a lack of snowmobile driving experience or just a plain lack of common sense," said Fleming.

Inexperience has resulted in collisions with stationary objects such as trees, fence posts, roots, and wire fencing, thus endangering the life of, and often causing injury to anyone riding on the snowmobile.

According to Fleming, a few precautions the snowmobiler can take to insure his fun and safety are to "learn the location of snowmobile trails--most are marked with a distinctive trail symbol--then stay on the special trails and off the ice, highways, and railroad tracks. Novice snowmobilers should never go into areas where help is not easily obtained."

The National Safety Council is still compiling statistics on snowmobile accidents and welcomes any and all additional information.

Nobody Is Perfect

Each one of us is a mixture of good qualities and some perhaps not so good qualities. In considering our fellowman we should remember his good qualities and realize that his faults only prove that he is, after all, a human being. We should refrain from making harsh judgment of a person just because he happens to be a dirty, rotten, no-good son-of-a-bitch!

Comic Opera Invasion

"The white man's burden" still weighs heavily on the rulers of the shrunken British empire, at least to the extent of requiring an invasion of the Manhattan-size island of Anguilla in the Caribbean in order to save its, 6,000 inhabitants from themselves.

It reads like the scenario for an improbable musical comedyA patch of land in the ocean declaring itself independent from a federation with two other patches (St. Kitts and Nevis); a visiting British minister unceremoniously hooted off the island; British frigates, helicopters and paratroopers vs. Napoleonic-era cannons.

Fortunately, in keeping with the happy-ending traditions of operetta, no shots were fired and no one was hurt.

We await the final act when the grateful inhabitants gather to sing a fond adieu to their departing deliverers. But if the backers of this production really wanted to score a box-office smash, they should have written in parts for a tenor and a soprano.

They'll never make it to Broadway without some love interest.

The National Safety Council estimates that more than 40 per cent of all traffic deaths in recent years resulted from accidents involving a single vehicle. More than half of the turnpike deaths occur this way.

Four honeymoon couples were seated at the same table in the hotel dining room. After dinner, while the men were engaged in conversation the four brides were left alone.

They decided that over breakfast the next day they would all tell how many affairs each had concluded the night before by using a code word. The code word would be "morning," and each would use that word as many times as was appropriate to indicate how many times they "did it."

The next morning, at breakfast, the first two brides greeted each other.

"Good morning," said the first.

"Good morning to you. What a beautiful morning it is," said the second.

The third couple arrived shortly afterwards. She greeted the first two with: "Good morning. My, what a lovely morning. It's the nicest morning I'veseen in a long time."

They all grinned knowingly, when finally, the fourth couple arrived. As they sat down, the fourth bride looked around gloomily and said: "What a lousy day!"

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

Running down a rainy street hand in hand with someone you love ... The opening door of home after a long day at work ... Lying in bed at night and watching the strange patterns of light and dark made on the ceiling by cars passing outside ... Being patted awkwardly on the face by the fumbling fingers of a small child.

The feel of corduroy cloth and the gnarled bark of old oak trees ... The gleam of brass and old silver candlesticks ... Going on a picnic and coming back safe from a war ... Watching a brilliant summer lightning and thunder storm from a sheltered place ... Having someone else volunteer to do the dishes after a hearty meal.

Playing catch with a teenager and finding you're still able to hold on to the fast ones ... Entering any room where you know you'll be welcomed by someone you want to be welcome to ... Taking the last poker pot of the evening and leaving the game a winner ... Passing an annual physical examination that this year you feared you'd flunk for sure ... Paying an installment on a mortgage— just once—three days ahead of the due date.

Pigeons getting crumbs from pious old ladies on the steps of a cathedral ... Saucy squirrels seeking handouts in a public park ... The sound of running water and the sight of falling stars ... The historic ritual of scratching your initials with a tree branch on a page of fallen snow ... The wavering path of a breeze across a field of ripening wheat.

Poking around amid the halfforgotten treasures in the attic ... Coming across an old love letter and dropping everything to read it ... The stern, selfconscious look on yesterday's faces in the old family photograph album ... How odd will your own face look to the eyes that will gaze upon it some far tomorrow?

The placid acquiesence of elderly faces, no longer afraid of death or time ... The smell of frying bacon ... The scent of a clover field on a dewy morning ... The uncurling grace of a cat rising and stretching herself ... The feel of clean sheets ... A friendly note from the boss saying he'd been watching your work lately and was glad to see that you were at last doing some of it. Also in the note: a pay hike.

Chopping kindling wood for a home hearth ... Giving a graduation present to a high school girl, and being told by her in tears that it was the very thing she had most hoped for ... The excited squealing of tenement children taking a street shower from a fire plug ... Awaking in a bedroll at midnight on a mountainside, surrounded by all the awesome glory of the universe, and talking your heart out to that lonesome stranger, God.

Doc. Duncan Says

Seems like the wheel of fortune has made one. Complete revolution since the days of our forefathers the question now is will this wheel start another revolution? Or remain on dead center? In the beginning they could not manufacture a horse-shoe rail, they had to be imported, with a heavy import, duty or tax. As of today patented held by monopolites has about the same effect, and as to import to they possibly would be loaded with duty if they people began to bug autos, shoes, clothing, and others, needs in large quantities. This would be necessary to protect our feable labor and industry. So they say. So that leaves the same, old choice, bust following the boom of the sixties, same as the bust in the 30s following gh boom in the twenties, and guy that can't see it coming now is just afraid to look.

PRICE OF ANARCHY

Campus dissenters whose chief aim is disruption of universitty operation may be succeeding in a way they had not foreseen. In the last election, many bond issues and tax proposals having to do with education went down to defeat. In California, $250 million in bonds for construction in the State's troubled universities and colleges were turned down by the voters. Campus riots at Berkeley were given as one reason for the rejection. Tax increases to meet school needs were also defeated in many areas over the nation.

Evidently voters resent the use of tax-supported educational institutions as a breeding ground for riots and violence. The slowing down of the flow of tax funds for education is part of the price that everyone must pay when permissiveness becomes anarchy.

FREEDOM'S TECHNOLOGY

The first footsteps on the moon were American, a tribute to the versatility and ingenuity of Freedom's technology as exemplified only in Republic USA. Tyranny can build giant rockets and military machines by utilizing technology and technicians developed by Western capitalism, but the most awesome powers of tyranny have failed not only to feed, clothe and shelter its peoples, but failed also in their concentrated effort to claim the moon first for communism.

Despite the communists' most ardent efforts, and their head start in making the attempt to reach the moon first, they failed to beat American individual enterprise and the profit-motive system.

The communists decided even before World War II was over to capture all the German rocket experts possible in driving through the German rocket experimental station in Peenemunde. They captured two of the German's newest V-2 rockets, fully assembled with all their manuals and plans, along with hundreds of German technicians and scientists. They quickly built 400 copies of the V-2, from which research and development they built their first Sputnik satellite which so upset the American people when we discovered we were behind a technologically backward people in an important field.

The communists used captured experts and secret, forced labor to leap out ahead of the U.S., temporarily. But once the U.S. Army's rocket team was given the go-ahead, a U.S. satellite was put up in record time.

It has been American businesses competing against each other for design and construction contracts for the various Mercury, Gemini and Apollo space research projects which has enabled Republic USA to put the first men on the moon. HLH

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Sen. Long cherishes his tax prerogatives; blasts Ted Kennedy for meddling; Lobbyists and tax reformers gird for battle

WASHINGTON--Senate finance Chairman Russell Long erupted like a gusher in his native Louisiana tidelands when he first learned about Sen. Ted Kennedy's pln to introduce a comprehensive tax reform program.

Ever since Kennedy dethroned him as Senate democratic whip, long has bristled at even the mention of Kennedy's name. So when long found that Kennedy was meddling with taxes he really blew his top. Taxes are the sole prerogative of the Senate Finance Committtee.

Snorting fire, Long accosted Kennedy in the Senate Democratic cloakroom the other day. Breaking into a coversation between Kennedy and Iowa's Sen. Harold Hughes, long informed Kennedy testily that his tax proposals would never get the approval of the Finance Committee.

In that event, replied Kennedy, he would bring them up on the Senate floor as amendments to the tax bill.

Long asked derisively how many times Kennedy had been able to override the appointed committees on the Senate floor.

"How many have you won?" demanded Long.

His language was too explosive to be printed here. The sparks quickly spread through the Senate's backrooms, and a friend asked long what he had said.

"I told Kennedy to go fly a kite," said the Senator from Louisiana. Then he flashed the impish grin that has become a Long trademark and added: "But I used language that would be understood on the Louisiana wharves."

Meanwhile, the Senator from Louisiana is tryig to slow the Pellmell rush for tax reforms. The House Ways and Means Committee acted so swiftly that the Lobbyists for the special interests were caught by surprise.

In the past, they had been able to count on powerful house friends to sidetrack reforms. Not until it was too late did they realize that a tax reform bill was heading down the main track, straight to the house floor.

They will be unable to sabotage the bill on he floor. Under the closed rule of tax measures, the house must accept or reject the entire reform bill. The outcry from middle-income Americans for tax reforms will make it dangerous for any Congressman to vote against the bill.

As a result, he Lobbyists are suddenly swarming like summer tourists on the Senate side of Capitol Hill. Their only chance to head off reforms at this date is in the Senate, where the bill can be adorned with obscure clauses that will save their tax benefits.

It is largely up to Long to protect the tax loopholes. The Oil and Gas Industry in particular is counting upon him. Long is a big stockholder in the "Win Or Lose Oil Company" whose shares sell for $25,000. The oil boys were jolted by the 7½ per cent reduction voted by the House Ways and Means Committee, which previously had operated as a branch office of the oil industry. Long gave the Senate Democratic policy committee a preview of his strategy during a recent closed-door hassle over taxes. He argued at length that one Congress's loopholes were another Congress's reforms.

"While a great deal of attention is presently focused on the closing of loopholes," he said, "I can point to countless provisions of the tax law which prior congresses put there to close the loopholes of their time.

He made it cler that he intends to examine every reform carefully before he starts plugging loopholes. However, he is a populist in the image of his father, the late Huey "Kingfish" Long. Except for the oil industry, Russell Long can't be depended upon to safeguard the tax privileges of all the special interests.

He confided to the Democratic policymakers behind closed doors; "Certainly the rules governing the tax-exempt foundations are going to be tightened, and I am optimistic that a minimum income tax will be enacted to do something about the fellow who is financially able to juggle his income and deductions in a way as to avoid paying any federal income tax--or perhaps only a token tax.

"That sort of exploitation of the tax law is a direct consequence of wealth. It creates an unfair preference in favor of the man who is fortunate enough to make his money from the ownership of property as contrasted to people who earn their living with their hands."

--Simpler Tax Returns--

Long also wants to simplify the income tax returns.

"I'd like to offer every taxpayer," he told the Senate democratic policy committee "A simplified method of reporting his income and paying his tax."

Nor has Long given up the idea of letting the taxpayer instead of the special interest pay for Presidential campaigns through a tax check-off system.

"Although the tax check-o was suspended a few months after it was enacted," he said "It has focused the attention of the nation on a problem we're going to have to deal with probably before the next Presidential Election in 1972."

Clearly, the struggle in the Senate between the Lobbyists and the reformers is going to be a classic. It will be interesting to see whether the special interests with all their backroom lobbying and backdoor contributions, will be able to preserve their tax privileges.

Note--The tax lobby is banking upon Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen to save tax exemptions in the finance Senate showdown. Dirksen has built his Senate career upon championing the special interests, some of which are represented by his law firm back in Peoria.

Ann Landers

Hubby With Starry Eyes Watches Heavenly Bodies

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago my husband bought a telescope to study the stars -- he said. After the fourth night he lost interest in the sky and is now studying other "heavenly bodies." We live in an apartment which is ideally situated for his new hobby. He hurries through dinner, races to the window and stays there four or five hours at a time.

Last week he invited three of the boys from the office to enjoy the fun. He was quite disappointed because his two best subjects for observation (he calls them Venus and Mars) were not at home. He promised the boys he'd invite them back.

I am disgusted with him and he knows it. I am also concerned that he might be breaking the law. I've heard of men being arrested as Peeping Toms. Please inform me. -- Just Looking, Thanks

Dear Just: So long as Tom stays in his own apartment he cannot be arrested. In the meantime, be patient, dearie. Tom will tire of his hobby after a while. Growing up takes time.

Dear Ann: A distant relative of mine who is going through the menopause is acting very oddly. Six weeks ago she telephoned at 2:00 A.M. and asked, "Are you all right?" I said, "Yes, of course." She then related a terrible dream she had in which I was murdered. That was the end of my night's sleep.

A week later she telephoned at 6:00 A.M. and asked if I had called her. I said, "No." She then explained that her phone had rung and she heard a scream that sounded like my voice.

This past week she had telephoned five times, accused me of calling her and not speaking, just breathing into the phone. I'm sure the woman needs a psychiatrist. In the meantime I'm going to need one, too, if she doesn't quit bothering me. Any suggestions? ---- Pestered By A Nut

Dear Pes: Suggest that she see a doctor and get help. Then help yourself by getting an unlisted telephone number. It costs nothing.

Dear Ann: Our 11-year-old son's best friend, Joey, wants to admire his father and tries hard to justify his drinking. Last night he asked if I was against beer, "even if a person can drink 12 bottles in a row and still walk a straight line." He added with fake bravado, "My dad can do it!"

I gave a non-commital answer and then hated myself for not having the courage to tell the boy what heavy, continuous drinking can do to a person. How can I get the message across without running down his father, and incidentally, his mother, too? --- Austin

Dear Austin: It is not your responsibility to "get the message across." A child's basic concepts are learned at home, not from the neighbors. When the boy asks leading questions tell him to talk to his parents. In the meantime some individuals who grew up around alcoholism hate liquor and never touch it. Others turn out to be second and third generation lushes, which gives the impression that alcoholism is hereditary. It is not, of course. It is a learned response to frustration, loneliness and insecurity.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with -- but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing, a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Housewives

housewives by jesse lynn
Webster tells us in so many words,
Just what a housewife means,
He says its a holder for needles and thread,
And scissors and buttons it seems.

I guess in a sense that's kinda true,
As we're stuck with the chores of the house,
Stuck with the dishes and stuck with the kids,
Yet thread our way through like a mouse.

We cut up the onions and cut off the grass,
And cut down the budget, we try,
We cut out the griping and button our lip,
To avoid little spats with our guy.

Webster has his meaning,
Now I'll show what the big book should say,
Here's a salute to all housewives,
So slip on your crown for the day.

You are a queen in her glory,
In all sizes and weights you appear,
Even though you may not quite believe it,
You enjoy every minute each year.

You're found in all sorts of new places,
On the floor with mopping to do,
Burning the trash or closets you clean,
And especially in hearts around you.

You're purity with onions stinging your eyes,
And Wisdom with a budget that's shot,
You're beauty with flour spots still on your nose,
And curlers you must have forgot.

The children look up to you with such pride,
You're adored by your friends far and near,
Heaven blesses you every day,
And to father you're specially dear.

You like peace and quiet and soft music too,
The paycheck that comes in is great,
You love when its naptime just after lunch,
And a night on the town with your mate.

You don't like for people to track up the floors,
And the salesmen who come to your door,
Five in the mornings and bills every month,
And spring cleaning you'd rather ignore.

You're a creature of magical wonder,
As in one day you play many parts,
A teacher, a playmate, a nurse and a cook,
And a doorman when home father carts.

But when he walks in and says with a grin,
"Hi honey, I'm home, how's your day?"
You know you are surely a beautiful queen,
And a queen you always will stay.

The Gospel Visitor

By Reedus M. Baugher

Last week we had a first of a planned series of lessons, on the theme, "Dealing with the lost." We were seeking to point out the way of salvation, to those anxious to know, by studying actual cases of the lost being saved, in the days of the apostles. The first example we noticed was in the second chapter of Acts. Here in this city of Jerusalem, they were to began preaching, to lost man, the message of salvation. And according to the instruction of Christ the gospel was to be preached next to the Samaritans, then, unto the uttermost part of the earth. (Acts 1:8)

The apostles needed, and received help in spreading the gospel over the country. And thus, Luke, the historian, in the eighth chapter of acts tells of the persecution against the church at Jerusalem, that caused the disciples to be scattered. Verse four says, "they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word." Then we learn that Philip went down to the city of Samaria, "and preached Christ unto them." Some preached the word, some preached Christ, but, all were preaching the gospel. The same message which the apostles preached on Penecost.

The result of the work at Samaria is similar to that in Jerusalem at Penecost, the form of their obedience being precisely the same. In chapter 2, Luke states that, "They who gladly received his word were baptised;" and here he states, When they believe Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women." (vs. 12) Here we have a new class of subjects, among whom a worker for Christ was called to labour. Would the same glad message be proclaimed to them which had been proclaimed to the Jews? Would the same form of obedience be required and rendered as required before? We see from this record that there was no change in anything. There was the same message proclaimed, the same form of obedience rendered, and the same privileges enjoyed by these persons of mixed blood, as those of the fleshly seed of Abraham. We are also, informed of the conversion of Simon the sorcer. Simon also believed and was baptized we are told. some say to him," That he wasn't truely converted, since he fell from grace" But it seems Luke understood that he was. Luke's report of the case; gives a straight forward account of what Simon did, both of what was right and what was wrong. He saw the miracles, heard the proclamation, believed on Jesus, and was baptized. Now, all this was perfectly right, being done under Philip's teaching and direction. Simon started well, and if he had not yielded to temptation, he would have held on the course begun.

New Uniforms For UN Guides

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The United Nations displayed a new uniform for its 100 girl guides which it said took months of preparation. Some of the girls seemed to question if it was worth the bother.

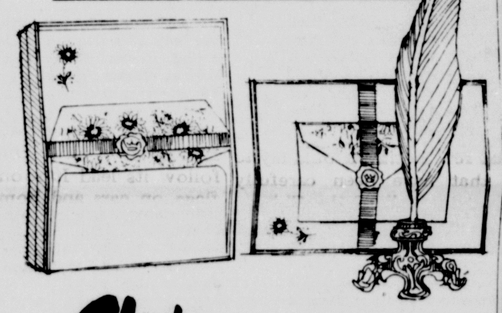

The uniform features a royal blue miniskirt, white blouse with full-length sleeves and a deep, wide collar, and a long, sleeveless Pilgrim - style tunic in gold with brass buttons. The fabrics are dacron and wool.

Some of the guides called it "deglamorizing" and said they would have to shape the tunics to their figures to offset that. "Some of us have had to shorten the skirt," said Soheila Garrett, an attractive Iranian guide.

It replaces the bright blue dress with white ascot worn by the young, multinational and multilingual guides for the past 18 months. That one shrank, said the girls.

The program is designed to give students a preview of life at Ole Miss and to facilitate the transition of high school and junior college students to life at the University.

PARMA -- Semi-final round play begins at 7 p.m. tonight in the Babe Ruth invitational baseball tournament as Oran and Lilbourn battle. New Madrid and Risco meet at 9 p.m. after pulling off wins last night, New Madrid 9-0 over Vanduser and Risco 6-2 over Benton.

Pitching has paved the way for the four finalest and tonight's games should be pitching dules.

Fred Copeland hurled a two-hitter as New Madrid shutout Vanduser 9-0 with the help of a five run sixth inning. In that frame New Madrid failed to hit as Vanduser committed three of its five errors.

A two-hitter was hurled by John Bunting as Risco won 6-2 with the held of a four run third frame.

Craig Filter cracked a fifth inning home run for Benton, the third round-tripper of the tournament and first since opening night play.

TEACHERS EMMIGRATING

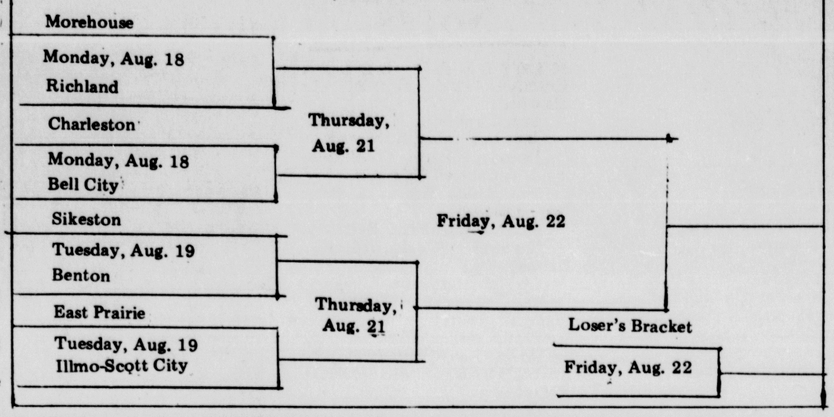

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — About 600 U.S. teachers are expected to arrive in Israel with their families in July as immigrants, the Jewish Agency, in charge of immigration, announced here.

They will undergo a six-month Hebrew language course, and another six months of training in Israeli schools before starting work, probably in 1970, the agency said.

Chaffee Wins Invitational

Chaffee took the Little League's nine and ten year old division championship title of Sikeston's Invitational Tournament last night with a 6-4 victory over Illmo-Scott City.

Sikeston All-Stars defeated the Sikeston Aces for third place in the tourney by a 14-3 margin.

Davidson took the win for the All-Stars while Jackson suffered the loss for the Aces.

Stars came up with a total of 10 hits against only five for the Aces. Only extra base hits of the battle came from the Stars and included two doubles by Glover and one each by Hampton and Davidson.

In the championship game, Chaffee led the hitting as it accumulated a total of 10 hits compared to only three for Illmo-Scott City.

McGuire became Chaffee's leading hitter of the contest with a home run and a double. Eftink also belted a double for the winning squad.

Wachter received the pitching win from the mound while Dohogne was endowed with the loss.

Good Sportsmanship trophey for the tournament went to Illmo-Scott City.

Two outstanding player selections were awarded to Allan Davidson of the Sikeston All-Stars and Lindy Duncan of Chaffee.

Players receiving honorable mention as outstanding players were Hal Butler of the Aces, Larry Stricker of the Aces, Charlie Miller of Illmo-Scott City, Rick Dohogne of Illmo-Scott City, Billy Hampton of the All-Stars, Scott Wachter of Chaffee, and Jay McGuire of Chaffee.

Dexter, Charleston In Finals

POPLAR BLUFF -- Dexter and Charleston will battle for the championship of the Babe Ruth invitational baseball tournament here tonight after Sikeston and Poplar Bluff decide the consolation in a 7 p.m. match.

Dexter made the most of three hits as it scored a 4-3 win over the host with Matthews picking up the win in relief of Huffman. Cates was the loser.

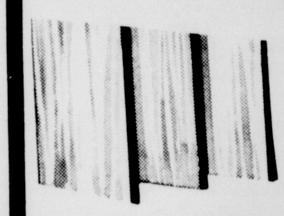

Simmons and Pierce teamed to pitch Charleston past Sikeston with Simmons picking up the win. Sikeston was held to four hits and five runs while Charleston was scoring eight runs on eight hits and handling Collins the loss. The game was shortened because of an hour and 45 minute time limit.

Charleston scored five runs in the second and added three in the fourth while Sikeston struggled to put one run up in the third and added four in the fifth.

Now Is Time to Plan Fall Garden

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Now is the time to begin planting your fall garden says W. F. James, extension agriculture agent. Usually they can be planted in the space vacated by your spring vegetables such as peas and potatoes, and if you have plenty of water available for irrigation during the month of August you can have a mighty fine fall garden. In fact, it could be your best garden, but without irrigation water you had better limit your fall planting to one or two favorite vegetables.

Generally the last week of July and the first week of August is the best time to plant a fall garden. Vegetables that take a rather long season to reach edible maturity would include bush beans, early maturing sweet corn, broccoli, caulflowers and root crops such as beets, carrots and turnips. And you might plant leafy vegetables such as endive, kale, cabbage and Chinese cabbage, also kohlrabi. These need to be planted not later than the first week of August. A few vegetables that reach edible maturity quickly can be planted nearly any time during August. These include leaf lettuce, radishes, spinach, mustard and turnip greens. In fact, you can make several plantings of these vegetables if you wish.

Since the last week of July and most of August is generally hot and dry in Missouri, irrigation is essential in establishing a fall garden. Use your irrigation water wisely. First, irrigate heavily before planting the garden. This may sound foolish, but you will find that if you start out with a moist seedbed you will be more likely to get good germination and a good stand of seedling plants. So make sure the upper foot of soil is moist before planting your fall garden.

After sowing the seed be prepared to keep the upper inch of soil moistened until seed has germinated. This means light applications of water in mid or late afternoon, probably each day unless rainy or cloudy weather prevails.

Insects can cause considerable damage to young seedlings. Flea beetles, leaf hoppers and cabbage worms are usually most troublesome. For the first week or two after seedlings are up it would pay to spray them with a methoxychlor and malathion mixture at least twice a week.

Speaking of insects, be on the lookout for spider mites on many summer Vegetables. These are tiny sucking insects that generally inhabit the undersides of leaves. They are light tan in color ane crawl around on fine webs. They are hard to see. If you see the foilage on your plants take on a dull, yellowish or grayist cast, look closely for spider mites; they probably are there. Malathion wettable powder should be used for control of these insects. Use a rounded tablespoon per gallon of water and spray every three days for three successive sprays. Get good coverage of the spray material, expecially the undersides of the leaves. Remember spider mites are mostly on the undersides of the leaves.

If you want to maintain size of your late tomatoes give them a sidedressing of nitrogen. Use about one pound of ammonium nitrate per 100 feet of row. Spread the nitrogen in a band along the edge of the foliage or burning will result. If you don't get a rain, water the nitrogen in. Then use plenty of water and you will find your late tomatoes will grow to a pretty good size.

Four Million Pounds of Food For Missourians

CHICAGO - Around four million pounds of U. S. Department of Agriculture-donated foods reached nearly 146,000 persons in Missouri during June, according to Dennis M. Doyle, Midwest district director of Consumer Food Programs.

Participants included 70,674 certified public welfare recipients and 75,310 other low-income persons. The Commodity Distribution Program operated in 67 Missouri areas during the month.

In 11 Midwest states, around 350,000 persons participated in 296 commodity areas.

Each month those taking part in the program receive free donations of USDA food through the local offices of Missouri's Department of Public Health and Welfare. An average of 27 pounds of food per person was distributed during June.

Foods available were canned whole chickens, processed cheese, canned turkey, chopped meat, canned beef, canned tomatoes, tomato juice, canned peas and dry potatoes. Others included flour, cornmeal, grits, bulgar, rolled oats, rice, dry and evaporated milk, lard/shortening, butter, corn syrup, raisins, dried prunes, prune juice, grapefruit juice, peanut butter, scrambled egg mix, corn, green beans and dry beans.

Canada has been the world's largest producer of nickel since 1905.

City of Malden Pledges $10,000 to Chamber Program

MALDEN — The City Council agreed Monday night to underwrite the Malden Chamber of commerce to the extent of $10,000 for the next fiscal year if the money is available. The money would be contributed by the Board of Public Works and the Airport Board to help finance the operation of the Chamber. Last year the Board of Public Works contributed $5,000 and the Airport Board $3,000.

Ronald Dye, newly elected president of the Chamber, and J. D. Byrum, past president, appeared before the council to request the financial support. They presented each member of the Council with a copy of an industrial brochure that recently was prepared by the Chamber and outlined the plans and goals for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

In the other action, the Council approved an ordinance to provide for oiling, repairing, surfacing, and re- surfacing of certain streets within the City of Malden. The city will be divided into districts for these projects. Contracts will be let and costs will be assessed to property owners through special tax bills.

A list of the streets appeared in the July 16 issue of the Press-Merit.

Malden Rejects All Fire Station Bids

MALDEN — All bids for the construction of a new fire station at the Malden Airport were rejected by the City Council at a special session held Friday, July 18.

The bids were rejected after several of the bidding contractors pointed out that the plans and misleading with several mistakes evident. The plans and specifications had not been prepared by an architect. Some of the bidders indicated that they had made necessary changes on heir own initiative.

After some discussion the Council decided to reject all bids. The plans and specifications will be redrawn and resubmitted to the same bidders.

Bids submitted were as follows: Johnson Construction Company, $20,230, Rogers Construction Co., $27,895; Joe Walker, $29,000; J. W. Githens Co., $34,000; and Smith and Livingston, $36,495.

Residents of Malden approved a $50,000 bond issue last November for the purcahse of a new fire truck and the construction of a fire station at the Airport. The truck has been ordered and is expected to arrive about September.

A set of plans for the fire station was prepared by Bill green, local engineer, and submitted to Mayor Sparrel Davis and the City Council last April on the night that Davis took office as mayor. Mayor Davis refused to accept the plans and said that the matter would be taken up later.

Green has not been requested to resubmit his plans and no explanation has been forthcoming from Mayor Davis.

Millions for Housing To Pour into Cairo

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie announced today a $5 million community sponsored housing program is being planned for low- income families in Cairo.

A state grant of $290,000 from the Illinois Housing Development Authoritity will provide immediate funds for the program.

Plans call for construction of approximately 250 family units dispersed through the community and owned by a local not- for-profit housing development corporation, Ogilvie said.

A 10- member biracial board will be set up to run the corporation.

The state grant will be used for site acquisition, staff salaries, architectural work and arranging long - ange private financing.

Federal housing and urban developments funds will provide a loan guarantee and an interest subsidy that will result in a loan ccst of only one per cent, the governor said.

"I am extremely hopeful that a beginning has been made that will lead to real progress in Cairo," Ogilvie said.

Widow Bequeaths Money to Reduce U.S., Kansas Debts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Sabetha, Kan., widow has left the federal government and Kansas $55,657.79 each to reduce their debts.

The action of the widow, Mrs. Mattie Meisner who died April 27, 1968, was reported to the House Thursday by Rep. Chester L. Mize, R-Kan.

Mize said he had been requested by the executors of Mrs. Meisner's estate to act as the middleman in turning over the check to the Treasury Department. He said the Kansas treasury has already received its bequest.

Mize, noting that the national debt is in excess of $358 billion, said:

"Even though Mrs. Meisner's bequest will make only an infinitesimal payment on the liquidation of this obligation, I just want to observe that her gesture is typical of patriotic, frugal Americans who live in the cities and farms of Kansas."

Forms Available For Drug Refunds

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Forms are now available for Missouri consumers to claim refunds on tetracyclene drugs bought between 1954 and 1966. About $800,000 is available to missourians.

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth said the forms are available at his offices in Jefferson City, Kansas City or St. Louis. They must be mailed to the U. S. District Court in New York by midnight Aug. 16.

Lyndon B. Johnson was first elected to the U.S. Senate in November, 1948, with an 87-vote margin over Gov. Stevenson of Texas.

AVANT-GARDE SCULPTURE seems to be replacing generals on horseback in the decor of U.S. cities. At left is a stainless steel work by Roy Gussow which recently was unveiled in Tulsa, Okla. It is about seven feet high and is set atop a base of Canadian granite. At right, Chicago's famed Picasso statue is etched sharply against the snow-covered Civic Center Plaza, setting for the 50-foot steel sculpture. As yet, no word has been received from the pigeons.

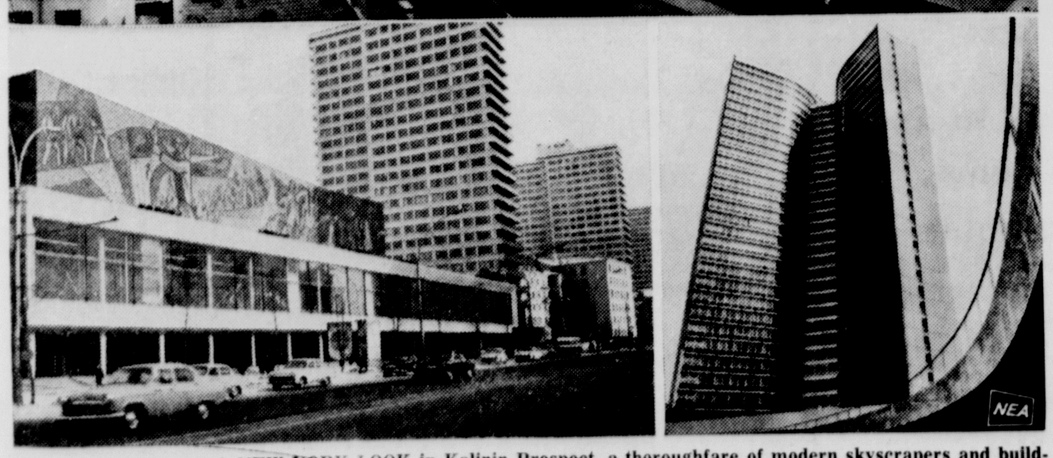

NEEDLE NOSES of U.S. Phantom Jets protrude from steel and concrete revetments at the Tan Son Nhut air base in South Vietnam. Hundreds of the revetments are being built at six bases to protect planes from enemy mortar and rocket attacks. Each revetment, a steel lining covered by 15 inches of concrete, weighs 930 tons and costs about $25,000. A Phantom Jet costs $2,250,000—well worth protecting.

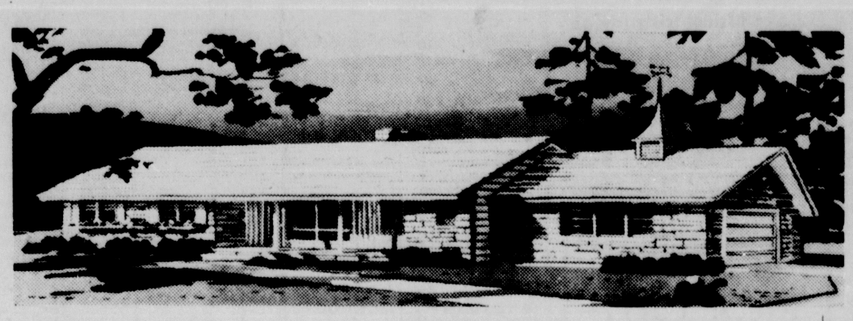

KEEPING PACE in the space age, Mohawk Airlines' new $4-million computer reservation center in Syracuse, N.Y., now provides access to automatic processing of ticket information for 850 agents in 38 airport stations. Workload for the new system increased by 50 per cent during a recent peak period when more than 400,000 calls were serviced. Key components of the system are twin IBM computers and 150 visual display terminals. At right, Cathy Murphy gives near-instantaneous processing of ticket information.

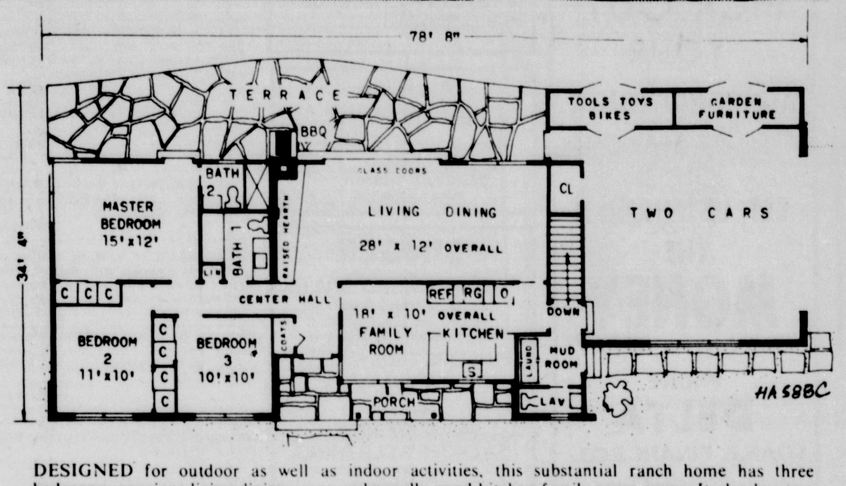

MOSCOW TAKES ON A NEW YORK LOOK in Kalinin Prospect, a thoroughfare of modern skyscrapers and buildings housing offices, apartments, shops and entertainment centers. Work on the new complex started in 1963 under the regime of former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and was completed last year.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

DESIGNED for outdoor as well as indoor activities, this substantial ranch home has three bedrooms, spacious living-dining areas and equally good kitchen-family room space. It also has two baths and a mud room lavatory. Living area is 1,250 square feet. Plan HA588C is designed by architect Lester Cohen, Room 704, 48 W. 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10036.

COVER-UP ON FORMOSA. A Chinese worker pulls a polyethylene film shroud over banana stalk still on tree to protect fruit from storm damage. The use of such shrouding promises to triple banana storage life and practically eliminate spoilage which costs Formosan growers millions of dollars annually. The shrouding is supplied by U.S.I. Far East Corp., which operates a 70-million-pound-a-year polyethylene plant on the island.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Why are string puppets often called "marionettes," a word of French origin?

A—It comes from the religious puppet plays of the Middle Ages in which one of the puppet characters represented the Virgin Mary. The name "Little Mary, or marionette," came to be given the other puppets.

2—Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends for many kind gestures during the death of Mrs. Ethel Harris. Special thanks to friends and neighbors for the flowers and food sent. Also Leslie Insurance Company and co-workers.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Sponge Rubber Pillow Eases Her Back Strain

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for anyone who does a lot of typing or desk work and does not have a regular typing or desk chair. I take a sponge rubber pillow off the bed (any kind that is not too bulky will do), slip the pillowcase and all over the back of a narrow-backed chair with the pillow side against your back. You have all the support needed. A special heavy slip of colored material could be made for such a pillow and then it could be used as a floor cushion when not needed for a chair back. Before hitting on this I had typer's hunch, sitter's sciatica and a strained expression. Thanks to you, Polly, and all the contributors for the many Pointers that make my daily tasks lighter.—MARY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Could someone tell me how to replace the elastic on men's shorts? The bands always give out when the rest is still good.—MRS. E. P.

DEAR POLLY — When doing some wool embroidery on heavy burlap I used a good needle with a long eye but had a hard time threading it. I folded a piece of the wrapper that came around the wool into a piece just wide enough to hold a piece of the yarn and that would easily go through the eye of the needle. When threading, simply put the yarn in the fold of the paper, pass the paper through the needle eye, remove the paper and pull yarn through the desired length. Works like a charm.—E. A. A.

DEAR POLLY—I do a lot of sewing for my own family and take in some extra, too. I reserve a whole day just for cutting. I have an electric scissors and cut out everything I am going to sew on in the near future. After cutting each garment, I place the cut material, the pattern, leftover pieces, zippers, thread and so on in a plastic bag and pin it shut. This way everything is together, nothing is misplaced or lost, the cutting is done and when I start to sew it goes in a whiz.—PAT

Johnson Grass Can Be Controlled—

By W. F. JAMES

CARUTHERSVILLE -- On many Pemiscot and Dunklin County Farms Johnson Grass has practically dissapeared because a regular control program has been followed. Similarly the amount of Johnson grass on rights of way, for roads and ditches has been greatly reduced. On the otherhand Johnson grass is showing very prominently again on some farms and on some rights of way. Johnson grass left undistrubed can take over a farm. Either you control it or it will control you.

The very fact that farms that used to be covered with Johnson grass are now free of it is proof that it can be licked.

If you have Johnson grass problem there is not a better time than now to start your control program. The important thing is to plan a Johnson grass eradication program and stay with it.

The University of Missouri Extension Division has published three separate guides: "Getting Acquainted with Johnson Grass", "Johnson Grass control for Roadsides and Similiar Areas", and "Johnson Grass control in row crops.". These are available free at any Missouri County University of Missouri Extension Center.

The information in these publications is based on research at the Delta Research farm at Portageville and in other parts of the state. Hundreds of farmers in the area who have followed the University recommendations for Johnson grass control will attest that the methods will get results.

In row crop areas, where an early summer crop is removed or where land has been fallowed and Johnson grass is a problem, here is a suggested program. Manage the field so the Johnson grass will have a vigorous growth of about 12 inches in late October. Spray the Johnson grass with 10 pounds of Dowpon (7.4 pounds dalapon acid equivalent) per acre when air temperature is above 70 degrees F. Plow the land 3 to 5 days after the treatment. Plan to use a preemergence chemical for seedling Johnson grass control in the spring. Also spot treat with Dowpon to control those clumps of established Johnson grass that survivied the fall treatment. Three of these program can given complete control of a badly infested field.

A more detailed description of how to control Johnson grass under all conditions may be had by ordering the three publications mentioned above from your University of Missouri Extension Center.

Meat Packing Firm Inspections Resume

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said that it has reinstated federal meat inspection at Hillcrest Packing Co. in Bonne Terre, Mo., effective July 25. The inspection and plant approval was suspended July 16 because of what officials called unsanitary conditions.

Federal law requires that meat shipped in interstate and foreign commerce be federally inpected and handled under sanitary conditions.

The Consumer and Marketing Service said federal inspection was restored after an examination disclosed that the plant met federal inspection requirements.

Green will succeed John Howell who has served as chairman for the past three years.

Green, Pinkley, Evan Burge were appointed and Howell was re-appointed to the Board on July 14. Other members of the Board are James Newberry and P. D. Watson.

The Airport Board will meet the third Monday night of each month.

What We Think About It

By Lt. Colonel Norman E. May
of Warwick, Bermuda

"I don't need to go so far afield to look for that meaning. I am a teacher, and at Harvard I have a class of about three hundred and fifty students -- men and women -- most of them freshmen and sophomores. Over these past few years, I have felt increasingly that something is terribly wrong -- and this year ever so much more than last. Something has gone sour, in teaching and in learning. It's almost as though there were a widespread feeling that education has become irrelevant.

"A lecture is much more of a dialogue than many of you probably realize. As you lecture, you keep watching the faces, and information keeps coming back to you all the time. I began to feel, particulary this year, that I was missing much of what was coming back. I tried asking the students, but they didn't or couldn't help me very much.

"But I think I know what's the matter. I think that this whole generation of students is beset with a profound uneasiness, and I don't think that they have yet quite defined its source. I think I understand the reason for their uneasiness even better than they do. What is more, I share their uneasiness.

"What's bothering those students? Some of them tell you it's the Vietnam war. I think the Vietnam war is the most shameful episode in the whole of American history. The concept of war crimes is an American invention. We've commited many war crimes in Vietnam -- but I'll tell you something interesting about that. We were committing war crimes in World War II, before the Nuremberg trials were held and the principal of war crimes was stated. The saturation bombing of German cities was a war crime. Dropping those atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki was a war crime. If we had lost the war, it might have been our leaders, who had to answer for such actions. I've gone through all that history lately, and I find that there's a gimmick in it. Is isn't written out, but I think we established it by precedent. That gimmick is that if one can allege that one is repelling or retaliating for an aggression, after that everything goes.

"And, you see, we are living in a world in which all wars are wars of defense. All War Departments are now Defense Departments. This is all part of the doubletalk of our time. The aggressor is always on the other side. I suppose this is why our ex-Secretary of State Dean Rusk went to such pains to insist, as he still insists, that in Vietnam we are repelling an aggression. And if that's what we are doing -- so runs the doctrine -- everything goes. If the concept of war crimes is ever to mean anything, they will have to be defined as categories of acts, regardless of alleged provocation. But that isn't so now.

"I think we've lost that war, as a lot of people think, too. The Vietnamese have a secret weapon. It's their willingness to die beyond our willingness to kill. In effect, they've been saying, You can kill us, but you'll have to kill a lot of us; you may have to kill all of us. And, thank heaven, we are not yet ready to do that.

If You Were the Judge

Dentist Must Not Injure in Restraint

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Dr. Pullum couldn't have been more proper if he had been brought up under the tutelage of Little Orphan Annie. Consequently, when the lovely Miss Jones slithered into his office, he didn't bat an eyelash. He sat her down in his dental chair, put her under gas and went to work on her.

While she was conscious, however, and Dr. Pullman was probing around her mouth, Miss Jones suddenly grabbed the startled dentist in a very private area and refused to let go.

Struggling for his virtue, Dr. Pullum strenuously attempted to free himself of his patient's vise-like grip. When he finally broke loose, he also broke Miss Jones' index finger. And when she came out of the gas and found that she could point at right angles, she sued Dr. Pullum for her broken finger.

"Believe me, I didn't break it on purpose," the harried dentist insisted in court. "I was only defending myself. I'm only a poor little defenseless dentist."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the poor little defenseless dentist pay Miss Jones for her broken finger?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a dentist must take precautions to prevent injury to his patients as well as himself. In this case, concluded the judge, had Dr. Pullum used wrist straps or some other restraining device on Miss Jones when putting her to sleep, the incident could have been avoided.

Pemiscot Hospital Accredited

HAYTI — Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti has received its accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, it was announced by Jack Tipton, hospital administrator.

The notice of accreditation came last week, marking the first time the hospital has been accredited since it was built in 1951. Four national medical and hospital organizations comprise the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals - the American College of Physicians; the American College of Surgeons; the American Hospital Association; and the American Medical Association.

Tipton said the hospital has been accredited for three years with no probation, pointing out that a hospital is usually accredited for a one year period at a time, and put on probation.

Application for accreditation was first made by hospital officials in 1967, when some 47 deficiencies were found. At the last check, only 10 deficiencies were found.

Tipton praised the cooperation of all employes and doctors to erase the deficiencies from the original report.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Fix your minds on whatever is true and honrable and just and pure and lovely and praiseworthy. (Philippians 4:8, Phillips)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, we ask Thee to touch our hearts and minds. Forgive us our sins, which bind us like a chain. Help us to live for Thee in love and kindness to our fellowman. We thank Thee through Christ, our Redeemer. Amen.

Taxless Travel

CHICAGO (AP) — Summertime travel could be a form of education that is a tax deductible expense and should not be overlooked, says Commerce Clearing House, a tax law authority.

There are no particular limitations on the extent of the travel or the amount of money the educational expense might incur.

A high school mathematics teacher, for example, who travels from Milwaukee to a university in California during the summer to take special courses in mathematics, could claim an income tax deduction, although he played golf or participated in other personal activities.

Travel expense, as well as the costs of meals and lodging, would be deductible as ordinary and necessary business expenses.

"Gladys had one of those computer-arranged dates —she thinks it had a short circuit!"

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 1, the 213th day of 1969. There are 152 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1514, Germany declared war on Russia at the outbreak of World War I.

On this date:

In 1502, Christopher Columbus landed in what is now Honduras.

In 1790, the first U.S. census was taken.

In 1794, the Whiskey Rebellion in Pennsylvania broke out. The revolt against a tax on whiskey was put down by troops dispatched by President George Washington.

In 1876, Colorado became the 38th state.

In 1907, an aeronautics division was set up in the U.S. Army Signal Corps. The U.S. Air Force traces its beginning to this date.

In 1948, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission was established.

Ten years ago — Vice President Richard M. Nixon, visiting the Soviet Union, made a broadcast in which he called for "a just peace based on mutual respect."

Five years ago — The space agency said pictures taken by a Ranger spacecraft showed the moon's surface was suitable for a landing by man.

One year ago — The U.S. government tried to force a rollback of steel price increases by limiting purchases by the military.

County Board Holds Hearings

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Board of Equalization was forced to extend their initial assessment hearing this week, because of an unexpected influx of landowners from Pike Township.

Pike had been scheduled for two days of hearings July 21 and 22. However, an unusually large number of persons forced the Board to re- schedule the additional hearings for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. County Court Clerk Marvin Capps estimated that there were more property owners from Pike Township attending the Board hearings than from all other townships combined.

The county as forced to raise the assessment level in Stoddard County $5 million, and Pike was one of those hit by the raises. Gus Scherer is assessor in Pike Township. Board of Equalization hearings are to hear complaints about assessments.

Turnout by resident of other townships was termed "average."

Following the Board of Equalization hearings, the Board of Appeals will meet on the following schedule:

Aug. 11 - Elk Township
Aug. 12- Duck Creek and New Lisbon
Aug. 13- Pike
Aug. 14- Liberty
Aug. 15 -Castor

The Board of Equalization is composed of the three members of the County Cour - Clyde Henson, Jack Ward and Lefler Lee -- plus the surveyor, Loyd Garner, and the assessor of the concerned township.

All meetings are being held in the court room, first floor of the courthouse.

Jaycee Wives Hear of Seals

DEXTER — Dexter Jaycee Wives met Monday night at the Ronald Cox Office Building. Present were two visitors, Mrs. Julie Minton and Mrs. Pam Kruse.

The Jaycee Wives car wash was discussed. It will be held Friday, August 1 at the Downtown Phillips "66" Service Station. Other items of business were discussed including an amendment to the constitution.

Gifts were presented during the evening to two new mothers in the club, Mrs. Don Powers and Mrs. Don Baker.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Kreyling of the Easter Seal Society. She gave a very interesting and informative talk on the purpose of the Easter Seal Society. The Jaycee Wives will be doing some work for the Easter Seal Society in the coming year.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Joyce Minton and Mrs. Kay Hall.

Riverview Museum to Open in September

CARUTHERSVILE — The committees working on the new Pemiscot County Riverview Museum project are all reporting good results. It is hoped that the museum will be open to the public by the early part of September.

Mrs. Lucille Fike, chairman of the M.C.B. committee in charge of the Riverview Museum stated that collections were doing well. Asked how many items had already been donated, Mrs. Fike pointed out that she had no idea but stated that there were very many.

Equipment from World War I, churns, pressed glass, flat irons, shoe lasts twists, and other items are some of the newest donations to the museum. Mrs. Fike said they were in the process of labeling all of the antiques.

As far as the building is concerned, lighting is about all that is left to be done. Mrs. Fike stated that McClendon construction workers had just completed work on the doors. Some of the old doors were taken out, but the double doors in the front of the building were not standard size and they will remain, fronted by a custom made storm type door. These old doors were used for railway purposes, loading and unloading.

Members of the Key Club at Caruthersville High School have also been active over the past week cleaning out some of the lumber and other material that was left in the building.

In an earlier report, it was stated that Museum officials would like to have a parade down Ward Avenue in honor of the museum, but Mrs. fike stated that no plans for this have been made at the present time.

16 in Race For Councilman

EAST PRAIRIE — Two late Friday filings for city councilman has increased the number of candidates to sixteen in the primary election which will be held Tuesday.

From this sixteen, ten men will be chosen and then in the general election August 19th the number will be narrowed to five men who will serve as city councilmen under the new manager type of city government.

The vocations of the sixteen men filing for the position of councilman in the new city manager form of government, are very diversified, included are Marvin Baker, retired policeman; Jones W. Hedge, owner of Rexall store; H. G. Davis, plumber; Harry L. Lewis, antique dealer; David Brumley, barber; Lloyd Hogan, former mayor and businessman; K. G. Whittington, owner of body shop; Dr. A. L. Weaver, Doctor of Osteopathy; Freemont McTigue, contractor; Ernest Douglas, groceryman; Davis Sairs, school bus driver; Jack Adkisson, farmer; Carleton E. Lucas, surveyor; Frank Carter, plumber and former mayor; H. H. "Granny" Russell, retired barber and Billy M. Reeves, insurance and real estate dealer.

As stated last week, those seeking election are entitled to electioneer in their race for office but, after election, must file a sworn statement of expense.

Car Strikes Tree, Driver Fatally Hurt

Lawrence "Junior" Wilson, 21, East Prairie, died today at 3:30 a.m. in the Missouri Delta Community hospital, as result of a brain concussion received in an auto accident, three hours earlier.

He was driving a 1955 Ford on Martin street, in East Prairie, when he lost control, when the car left the street and struck a tree.

Miss Annie Woodworth, 18, East Prairie, a passenger, was injured seriously.

Wilson was born in Ridgley, Tenn., Jan. 31, 1948, son of Mrs. Josie Wilson, and the late Lawrence Willard Wilson.

He had been in the army stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood.

Besides his mother, he is survived by three brothers, William, Willard and Jimmy Wilson, all of East Prairie.

Services will be Saturday at 2 p.m. in Shelby Funeral Chapel in East Prairie with the Rev. Darrell Jauch, pastor of the First Baptist church, in East Prairie officiating.

Burial will be in W.O.W. cemetery in East Prairie.

Kathy Hendrix, 15, Farmington, passenger in a 1968 Camero, driven by Darrell Pierce, 17, Potosi, died early today in Cardinal Glennon hospital in St. Louis as the result of an accident Saturday.

The accident occurred on highway 32 in Iron county, when young Pierce lost control of the car and ran into a ditch.

Three Wappapello residents were injured Thursday at 6 p.m. on route T, 200 yards south of Wappapello Dam.

A 1963 Ford station wagon, driven by Rose Kern, 38, Wappapello, ran off the road, down an embankment, and overturned three times.

The driver received a fractured left arm, cuts and bruises. Harold Null, 16, received a fractured ankle, cuts and bruises.

David Kern 20, another passenger, received head and internal injuries, and his condition was listed as critical.

The three were taken to Lucy Lee hospital, in Poplar Bluff.

James Wright, 16, route three Kennett, was injured Thursday at 6:40 a.m. on a township road, one mile east of Kennett.

He was driving a 1965 Chevrolet, when he lost control in loose gravel, left the road and went into a ditch.

He was taken to Dunklin County Memorial hospital in Kennett, where he was treatedfor cuts on his head.

Bond Issue Involved In Plant Location

City Attorney Manuel Drumm conferred today with officials of National Lock Hardware regarding an estimated $750,000 general revenue bond issue to construct a building for the new industrial plant.

City Manager W. Raymert Miller said this morning the exact amount of bonds has not been determined or has it been determined when a bond issue vote will be held.

Plans call or the company to lease the building from the city for a fixed number of years until the cost of the facility has been paid. Unofficial reports were that the lease would be for 20 years.

Although the issue requires voter approval published reports stated that there would be no increase in taxes. The new plant facility, which will manufacture residential door locks, will be built west of Merrick Mobile Homes on highway 61 in the southeast corner of Sikeston.

A date for the bond issue vote could be set by the city council Monday night.

Taxpayers Will Stage Protest March Monday

BENTON - A taxpayer protest march is being planned for Monday morning on the Scott County Courthouse and board of equalization in an attempt to get the county court to rescind the $7 million increase in tax assessments in the county as ordered by the state tax commission.

Abram Hirschowitz, Oran, who is organizing the march and who two weeks ago helped organize the Scott County Tax Association, said the march will be made at 10 a.m. in front of the courthouse. Hirschowitz, who served as chairman of the tax association until Wednesday night when he lost an election to Butch Heisserer, Illmo, said this march is not being made by the tax association. "It is just a group of taxpayers," Hirschowitz said.

He made no estimate of the number of taxpayers he expects to take part in the march. Hirschowitz said they will not have a lawyer because of lack of money.

The tax association is planning to appear before the county court with legal course requesting the same thing, but no date has been set. A committee is attempting to hire an attorney today.

The association met Wednesday night and it was announced Sikeston Attorney John Hux had consented to request the organization.

Jim Green a partner in the Hux-Green law firm, said yesterday the firm could not represent the group.

Nixon Urged to Halt Imports of Shoes

BY E.J. MAYS
State Editor

SIKESTON — Missouri senators and the representative of the Bootheel are moving to force action by President Richard Nixon to halt the influx of shoe imports from Puerto Rico, Japan and Taiwan that an industry check shows reportedly cost American workers the loss of some 64,200 job opportunities, during 1968.

Senators Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton and Congressman Bill D. Burleson said that they had written the president asking him to negotiate a voluntary agreement with these countries that would lower their shoe imports.

The trio had been besieged with letters from 376 workers at the Brown Shoe Co. plant at Bernie, along with hundreds from other Brown plants in the Bootheel, where production had been cut to four days a week, attributable to the imports.

The Bernie plant is the only Brown plant in the Bootheel now maintaining a five- day work schedule, Bernie plant manager Charles Stanfill said.

Also affected by imports is the Inland Shoe plant at Parma, which is slated to close, following completion of a 8-10 day work schedule, which begins Monday. More than 100 Parma plant employes had jobs terminated last week.

At the Advance Inland plant, some 125 employes are on a brief layoff period according to Manager Ivan Francis, who said the layoff is "due to movement of machinery to enable the plant to install machines that will finish Puerto Rican imported shoes. These Puerto Rican imports are allegedly almost completely finished with only a few minor stitchings to be made. The Stitchings are left unsewed so the shoes can be imported at a lower tarriff rate than that collected on finished shoes, shoe experts advise.

Francis said that "we (Advance Inland) have some machinery on the high seas and when it arrives we will employ some 8-10 additional men to handle the import completion."

Neither Brown nor International Shoe of Sikeston will handle any imports, according to plant officials.

The senators and Congressmen said they had written Nixon for his immediate attention in remedying the present leather and vinyl shoe import allowance and, if action isn't forthcoming they would take the matter into committee in both the House and the Senate."

Bootheel shoe workers, especially those at Brown and Inland sites are at odds with Senator Eagleton as a result of a letter from him that they say "intimated that the shoe industry could not expect any special treatment but would have to go along with other commodities and accept the import setup. Failure to do so would disrupt the balance of world trade," they say Eagleton contended.

Eagleton refutes this claim, asks that a letter he sent Bernie voters sets out the fact that he, along with Senator Margaret Chase Smith, had urged the president to attempt to negotiate a voluntary and mutually agreed upon restraint in regard to the import of non-rubber footwear imports.

The letter, as sent by Senator Eagleton:

Mr. Harold L. Stafford
President, Chamber of Commerce
P. O. Box 158
Bernie, Mo. 63822
Dear Mr. Stafford:

As you perhaps know, the Tariff Commission, at the request of the President, conducted a comprehensive investigation of the effect of non-rubber footwear imports on domestic industry. The Commission's report, dated January 1969, indicated that there was not present a valid industry - wide case for actual or threatened injury from non-rubber footwear imports.

The Commission found that expenditures for new plants and equipment had continued an upward trend for firms in every size category from 1964-1967; that quantity and value of shipments had risen substantially in 1968; that industry profits had risen materially since 1963, aided by higher prices; and that business failures in the industry had declined sharply from the level of the 1950's and early 1960's. In the period 1963-1967, the ratio of net operating profits to annual sales had increased by 35%. In fact, in 1968, there was some evidence of a labor shortage.

I realize that some smaller firms are experiencing some financial difficulty. In part, their difficulties may be due to import competition. But competition from the larger domestic producers, continually changing styles, and management problems may also be contributing to this situation. Where there is injury from imports, I believe that effective relief should be made available. For example, the present criteria for relief under the Trade Expansion Act of 1962 have been too rigid. These should be amended to enable firms to obtain relief when merited. In addition, I have joined with Senator Margaret Chase Smith and others in a letter urging the President to attempt to negotiate voluntary and mutually agreed upon restraints in regard to non-rubber footwear imports.

However, as a general proposition, I believe the case against trade restriction measures is strong. Quotas interfere drastically with market forces and are the antithesis of the basic concepts of a free-enterprise economy; the arithmetic criteria contained in most orderly marketing proposals bear no necessary or certain relationship to the needs of any industry for protection. The restrictions would havy an inflationary impact which would not only be detrimental to consumer interests, but would also weaken the ability of U.S. producers to compete in world markets. The latter effect is clearly inconsistent with our campaign to expand exports and improve our balance of payments position. Moreover, U.S. export would be badly hurt by retaliatory foreign measures should we impose restrictions on our imports.

Missouri produces many agricultural exports such as soybeans, feed grains, wheat and industrial exports such as transport equipment, non-electrical machinery, chemicals and allied products. If foreign nations were to impose retaliatory tariffs against our exports, Missouri would have much to lose.

Once again, thank you for writing.

Sincerely,
Thomas F. Eagleton
United States Senator

The letter from the Bernie Chamber of Commerce, asking relief, follows:

Honorable Thomas F. Eagleton
U.S. Senate
Washington, D.C. 20025
Dear Senator Eagleton

The Bernie Chamber of Commerce would like very much to go on record as being in favor of curbing the number of imported footwear in this country. We feel the Shoe industry needs your support thru legislature in this matter.

The Steel, Oil, Meat and other industries have been helped thru these channels and we strongly support our local shoe factory, which employs 415 people in a town with a population of 1578. What other industry has moved so many jobs to rural areas as the shoe industry? I challenge you to name one.

We don't ask that imports be stopped, we only solicit your aid in curbing imports so our rural areas can maintain their present rate of employment.

Sincerely
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
Harold L. Stafford, Pres.

The shoe manufacturers set forth the facts, compiled in a special research that some 168,600 job opportunites in the shoe manufacturing business can be lost by 1975, unless some of the exports are stopped.

According to their recordings some 96 million pairs of shoes -- 15 per cent of domestic production came into the U.S. in 1966; 129 million pairs or 22 per cent in 1967 and 175 million or 27 per cent in 1968. By 1970 imports, unless some equalization is effected, 220 million pairs, representing 35 per cent of the domestic U.S. production will come from imports and by 1975 a whopping 90 per cent, or 468 million pairs will be imported. Most of the 1968 imports, some 88 per cent, came from Puerto Rico, Italy, Spain and Taiwan but imports from Communist countries are increasing the shoe manufacturers point out.

Ready for Live TV from Mars?

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Today, the moon: tomorrow, Mars?

Capping an incredible month in the history of mankind, a month marked by man's first footprints on the moon, will be live television pictures from the mysterious red planet, Mars.

Two Mariner spacecraft, numbers 6 and 7 in the series, will fly past Mars on the mights of July 30 and August 4. Each will be about 2,000 miles from the planet at encounter.

Mariner 6, launched from Cape Kennedy on Feb. 24, will have flown a total of 241 million miles in 156 days. Communications distance from Mars at encounter will be 59.5 million miles -- about 5½ lights minutes.

Mariner, 7, launched March 27, will have recorded 197 million miles in 130 days.

Both spacecraft were boosted into space by Atlas-Centaur launch vehicles. The Mariner missions are conducted for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasedena, Calif.

The two craft are taking pictures which could be the most exciting yet, as they carry cameras that can show features as small as 900 feet across -- compared with the two-mile resolution of Mariner 4 in 1965.

Space scientists say they are sharp enough to pick out canals, pyramids, ruins, temples or geometrical patterns that might be signs of past civilizations on Mars. Most scientists doubt there is any higher form of life on Mars, however, the 21 pictures televised by Mariner 4 showed a barren, crater-pocked landscape, much like the moon.

Mariner 6 will examine the equatorial regions of Mars. Mariner 7 will cover some of the same area, but will concentrate on the southern heimsphere and a portion of the south polar cap. Together, they are expected to furnish data as different as possible from the standpoint of geography and climate.

The pictures may well chart the course of man's personal exploration of space through the 1980s. But final proof of whether even simple forms of life exist on Mars will have to wait until later missions.

Two Mariner - class vehicles are scheduled to orbit Mars for three months in 1971. Two years later, two Viking spacecraft are to orbit Mars and detach vehicles which will descend and sample the surface.

Hearnes Explores Feasibility Of Special Session This Fall

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has started exploratory talks with legislators and fiscal experts to determine whether a special legislative session would be feasible this fall.

The first conference was held Thursday with Sen. A. Basey Vanlandingham, D- Columbia, Senate majority leader; Sen. T. D. McNeal, D-St. Louis, Senate Ways and Means Chairman,and Rep. E. J. (Lucky) Cantrell, D Overland, House Appropriations Chairman.

Also present were Comptroller John C. Vaughn, Arthur W. Betts, the legislative fiscal affairs officer, and two representatives of the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, Ed Staples and Robert Knuth.

The governor is deeply concerned about the state's fiscal outlook.

"I tell you, it's keeping me awake night," he told friends recently.

The problem is that when the Legislature meets in its annual budget session next year, it will face the urgent necessity of raising at least $90 million in new revenue, anyway you figure it. That is the conservative estimate. Others range up to $114 million.

The state is already a year behind in new capital improvements at state colleges, universities and hospitals because the 1969 Legislature appropriated no money for this purpose.

In addition, the 1970 Legislature will face the immediate problem of raising $35 million more to finance the increased school foundation formula it adopted this year. It calls for a $35 million a year boost each year for four years.

A controversial cigarette tax increase was passed this year to raise about $31 million for the first year with the rest to be made up from existing balances. There is no money in sight for this purpose next year.

Even though the money needs will get sharper as time goes on, the governor feels it would be useless to call a special session that would cost about $250,000 unless the votes can be lined up to get revenue bills through the senate.

A NATIONALLY KNOWN chain reportedly is going to build a motel behind the Post House restaurant west of Miner. It is expected that land developer Charles Conn will make an announcement in September.

District Attorney Applies for Inquest Into Drowning

BULLETIN

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the state Superior Court rejected flatly today a request for an inquest into the death of Miss Mary Jo Kopechne.

Miss Kopechne, 28, was the secretary who drowned when Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car plunged off a bridge on Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast July 18.

Tauro's secretary said the justice based his decision on the contention that jurisdiction in the matter rests with the District Court system, rather than the Superior Court.

The District Court is one step below the Superior Court in the makeup of the Massachusetts judicial system.

The inquest had been sought by Dist. Atty. Edmind Dinis.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Edmund Dinis has applied for an inquest into the drowning of a girl secretary in a car accident involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy—and has drawn a rebuke from the judge who will rule on the request.

Dinis said Thursday he had sent the application to Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro of the state Superior Court.

Declaring that the first he heard about it was from the press, Justice Tauro described the timing of the announcement as "bad judgment at the very least" and said: "I can't comment on it until I receive it. I'll have plenty of comment at the right time."

Dinis is district attorney for the Southern District, which includes the Martha's Vineyard area where the drowning occurred July 18. Until now, he had stayed clear of the investigation, which led to a charge against Kennedy of leaving the scene of the accident, fatal to Miss Mary Jo Kopechne, 28.

Like the senator, Dinis is a Democrat. But he is not regarded as a member of the party's dominant Kennedy wing. He ran unsuccessfully for Congress last year.

Miss Kopechne was trapped in Kennedy's car when it plunged off a narrow bridge into a tidal pool on Chappaquiddick Island. Dr. Donald R. Mills, the district medical examiner, pronounced her death due to drowning.

Dr. Mills said he reported the death to Dinis' office, and reached an agreement that no autopsy was needed.

Critics of the senator have expressed dissatisfaction with his explanation of why he left the scene of the accident without reporting it to the police until the following morning.

In an interview Thursday night on the television program "The CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite," Ted Sorensen, a Kennedy adviser, said that as the senator himself had declared "his conduct that night is inexplicable."

"His conduct during those hours after the accident was fully summed up in the most humiliating kind of language in his presentation," Sorensen said. He referred to a telecast in which Kennedy asked his Massachusetts constituents to say whether he should quit the Senate.

"He would agree with you that he should have gone and gotten help that night now that he looks back on it," Sorensen said. "Of course he should have."

Interviewer Robert Shakne asked Sorensen why Kennedy crossed from his hotel in Edgartown back to Chappaquiddick to make a call to his lawyer the morning after the accident.

In his own telecast after the accident Kennedy said, "I regard as indefensible the fact that I did not report the accident to the police immediately.

Man Refuses to Pay for Gasoline

Patronage Rising at Jaycee Pool

By KEITH HALL

The Jaycee swimming pool's history is a shakey as a bowl of gelatine. Attendance, and income rose and fill with the advent of racial integration.

The pool was constructed in 1933 by the Works Progress Administrative and managed by the city government. Attendance to the pool was limited to whites until 1954.

A United States supreme court ruling in 1954 ended racial segregation in public facilities. In order to maintain racial segregation the city sold the pool, in 1955 to the Jaycees.

When segregation was retained pool attendance was high and a small profit was divided between the city and the Jaycees. During the 60s, the high profits splits were: $1,043.61 in 1960, $993.09 in 1962, and $1,497.49 in 1964. The days of profit-sharing came to a halt with the final thrust of racial segregation unwraveling in 1965.

The passage of the civil rights act of 1964 ended all segregation of publicly used facilities, whether private or publicly owned.

No other publicly used facility felt the whiplash of this bill as much as the Jaycee swimming pool. Attendance dropped. A total of $2,583.17 was lost that summer.

The climb up from the pool's depression of 1965 has been long and slow.

The average maintenance cost of $6,500 has kept the pool from making a profit. The money taken in from admission prices since 1965 have been $6,957.04, in 1966, $6,124.88 in 1967, and $6,832.99 in 1968.

Mike Gallagher, 411 Sikes, pool manager, who has been working at the pool for three years, says the pool, attendance is higher this summer than it has been since he started in 1966. Frank Harp, 205 north Standard, pool committees treasurer, sees a profit this summer with the increase in attendance if there aren't any major mechanical difficulties with the pool's filtering system.

The pool is a community asset. The other nearest swimming facility is in Dexter. Many of 200 children, who use the pool daily, wouldn't be able to travel that far. The pool remains open for this reason according to Keith Ziegenhorn, former swimming pool committee chairman. Ziegenhorn served nine years on the committee and worked to keep the pool open even though it was operating at a loss.

Twelve young men and women hold the lifeguard positions of the pool for token wages. The average wage is 95 cents an hour.

Assistant manager, at the pool is Becky Wagner, 1015 North Kingshighway. Gallagher receives $60 a week and Miss Wagner $55 a week for operating the pool.

Even though the organized activities of the pool are few the turnout is large.

The Kiwana club sponsored swimming lessons for children seven to 12, during June. The cost of the lessons was $3 for 10 days. Three hundred and fifty children turned out for the lessons.

Gallagher and Miss Wagner who hold Water safety instruction certificates, had a turnout of 29 for senior and junior life saving courses.

The Jaycees offered free adult swimming class taught by Gallagher during July. Thirty-five attended.

Warren Manning, Scott County Sanatarian, says the filtering system is keeping the chlorine and bacteria count in the water within health department requirements. Manning checks the water twice a week.

He said he is amazed at the efficiency of machinery maintains considering its age.

The end of the season is in sight, the pool closes Labor Day.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Can a man afford to become known as the meanest man in town in order to save three or four hundred dollars a year?

NOT EVERYONE PAYS

Most people understand the need for taxes and accept the burden of tax payments as a necessary duty of citizenship. This holds true even when temporary financial difficultues are encountered which require the sacrifice of some personal or family needs in order to make tax payments.

Trouble arises when taxes get so high that payment becomes impossible or when taxes force a businessman to price himself out of the competitive market. The number of tax losses of this kind are on the increase.

For example, a total of $2,149,842,000 in past due taxes remained uncollected by the Internal Revenue Service at the end of 1968. This total included taxes described as "delinquent," in the amount of $1,586,611,000, taxes described as "uncollectable" in the amount of $326,787,000, and taxes which were "abated" in the amount of $236,444,000.

As of December 31, 1968, employment tax delinquencies were $339,428,000. This is the total that spells out the tragic trouble, because it represents amounts withheld from an employe which were never paid to the tax department. In most of these cases the reason was a failing business.

At the close of 1968 a total of 859,617 taxpayers were delinquent, 252,622 owed taxes that had been charge; off by the IRS as uncollectable, and taxes had been abated for 131,025. Tax abatements include compromise settlements, reductions by reason of court decisions, and recomputations.

In short, local, state and federal governments must be aware that there is a limit to what most American taxpayers can divvy up-- and God save this nation the day that the taxpayers really revolt against the constant tax increases fostered by politicians and their greedy cronies who ride the gravy train.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK AND RED CHINA

The strange and tumultuous news coming out of mainland China during the last few months should lay to rest a great many myths that have been carefully nourished over the years since the fall of the Chinese mainland to the communists.

We were told that the Red Chinese regime was solid, united and lasting, and certainly in no danger from popular upheaval. But it is now clearly, deeply divided among several contenders for supreme power. Popular uprisings continue all over China; some in support of one or another of the contenders for power; some apparently in opposition to all of them.

We were told that Red China might be wooed into sweet reasonableness and even a degree of cooperation with the West, especially if Peking's ties with Moscow could be loosened. But now Peking's ties with Moscow are virtually broken and the Red Chinese leaders are more fanatically anti-Western than ever.

Above all, we were told that Chaing Kaishek and his Nationalists of Free China on Formosa were finished historically and could never make a comeback. For years the supposedly all-knowing "experts" advising on our Asian policy, in the State Department or affiliated with it, have openly scoffed at the notion of Chiang Kai-shek ever returning to power.

As mainland China descends deeper and deeper into turmoil and chaos, the return of Chaing Kai-shek is becoming a very real possibility. With more consistent support from us he might have returned already. In any case, his great opportunity is at hand, and so is ours, to regain China for the free world.

We noted a New York Times syndicated article in The Kansas City Star just before July 4th that criticized the increasing number of Americans who display the flag as being right - wingers and opposed to progress as defined by a few so-called intellectuals.

Well, for those who think the great New York Times doesn't slant the news (?) to their own purposes, we would like to see one kind word for the Arabs in this newspaper -- even in its news columns.

But back to this criticism of flag-wavers, we wish the news staff of the New York Times would just once in awhile find something good about the sincere and honest average American who works instead of living on welfare, serves our nation in war instead of burning draft cards and the flag, and teaches his family to respect the rights of others and to salute the flag as the symbol of our Constitution and freedom.

The fact is that without the flag-wavers in the U. S. neither the New York Times nor any other newspaper would be in business for long.

For every highway accident that occurs, the National Safety Council estimates there are probably dozens of "nearmisses".

The Council attaches great importance to these "almost-accidents" because they contain all the ingredients of a crash except the collision. Documentation of near-misses can do much to supplement information obtained from accident reports, says the Council, which uses this data in studying the causes of accidents. And it's only after accident causes are established that accident prevention can begin.

Every year, the railroad industry sends the Council a summary of near-miss reports turned in by its train crews. There were more than 600 such reports last year and, according to a Council spokesman, "we're only seeing the tip of the iceberg."

The Council uses data from these reports to determine proper direction for some of its educational programs. For example, more than a fourth of the reports from last year involved train/schoolbus near - misses, indicating that schoolbus drivers need more education in safety procedures at railroad crossings.

Right now, the only regular near-miss reports come from the railroads. Such a procedure would also be valuable in preventing accidents throughout the highway system, however, and there are thoughts of enlisting the aid of large schoolbus and truck fleet operators -- as well as police -- in setting it up.

Even so, each individual is his own best accident-preventer. The best advice, of course, is to drive in such a way as to avoid even a near-miss. But when one does occur -- and it will -- take the time to analyze why you were so close to an accident.

The lesson learned from this bit of introspection could save your life.

WE'VE HEARD IT ALL

A recent issue of a national magazine carried an article about the growing trend to display of little decals of the American flag. The Old Glory decals have been around for quite some time. In fact, the report mentioned above showed a photograph of a 48- star flag decal on a shopowner's window. The man who owns the store installed it at the time of Pearl Harbor. There were a lot of window stickers in evidence during World War II. Patriotism was a guiding force during those years of ration stamps and priorities.

Another national magazine distributed 18-million flag decals in February this year, and the program was such a success that other companies and institutions began to follow its lead It soon became a common sight to find flags on cars and homes and store windows again. The radio antenna pennants are making a comeback, also. We think all this is good; we'd like to see it grow even more.

We disagree ith Georgia legislator Larry Thomason who, according to the article, called the whole business "an obscenity." He claimed that if the flag is sacred it should not be displayed along with other decals of a commercial or comic nature. This is like knocking a man for planting roses along the highway near the billboards and traffic signs. Does Mr. Thomason mean that no private company should fly a flag over its building, until having made certain that there is no sign that might convey commercialism? Perhaps he has forgotten that this country was built on a base of commercial endeavor. His salary is paid by the free enterprise system and the taxes of free men.

The strangest observation in the article on flag decals were from former baseball star, Jackie Robinson. Said he: "When I see a car with a flag pasted on it, I figure the guy behind the wheel isn't my friend." We hope he was misquoted; if not, we've heard it all.

The man who fails in his efforts to do something well is still more of a success than the one who never tries.

It was noted in a National Association of Manufacturers' publication that although garbage disposal is hardly a glamor subject, it is the third most expensive service in all communities and is worthy of taxpayers' attention. According to a recent report by the U. S. Public Health Service, in 148 Americans only discarded about two pounds of trash a day. In 168, they averaged some five pounds a day.

The National Association of Manufacturers was noted as posing the question, "What does it cost to create a job in industry?" And, then they went on to answer, "A lot depends on which industry you're talking about. The average investment behind each job for all U. S. manufacturing companies is getting close to $25,000. In some fields, such as chemicals and petroleum it's nearer $75,000 for each production worker."

NSC LOOKS AT SNOWMOBILE ACCIDENTS

The experiences of the present snowmobiling season have helped the National Safety Council gain a better perspective on the safety hazards of this popular form of winter recreation and he vehicle used.

John Fleming, Manager of the Council's Public Safety Department, feels that, while not all accident information filters into the Council headquarters, certain conclusions can be made from what information is available.

"On the basis of the reports we have studied -- involving some 25 fatalities and numerous injuries - it appears," said Fleming, "that the greatest danger comes from collisions with other motor vehicles and drownings as a result of ice breakthroughs." "There have," he said, "been many complaints of snowmobiles being operated illegally on railroad and traffic right-of-ways."

Some states do require registration of snowmobile vehicles, but most states have only limites snowmobile regulations and relatively minor penalties for violations. Snowmobile owners should find out their state's laws and conform to them--for their own safety.

"A number of fatal and injury-producing accidents can be attributed to a lack of snowmobile driving experience or just a plain lack of common sense," said Fleming.

Inexperience has resulted in collisions with stationary objects such as trees, fence posts, roots, and wire fencing, thus endangering the life of, and often causing injury to anyone riding on the snowmobile.

According to Fleming, a few precautions the snowmobiler can take to insure his fun and safety are to "learn the location of snowmobile trails--most are marked with a distinctive trail symbol--then stay on the special trails and off the ice, highways, and railroad tracks. Novice snowmobilers should never go into areas where help is not easily obtained."

The National Safety Council is still compiling statistics on snowmobile accidents and welcomes any and all additional information.

Comic Opera Invasion

"The white man's burden" still weighs heavily on the rulers of the shrunken British empire, at least to the extent of requiring an invasion of the Manhattan-size island of Anguilla in the Caribbean in order to save its, 6,000 inhabitants from themselves.

It reads like the scenario for an improbable musical comedyA patch of land in the ocean declaring itself independent from a federation with two other patches (St. Kitts and Nevis); a visiting British minister unceremoniously hooted off the island; British frigates, helicopters and paratroopers vs. Napoleonic-era cannons.

Fortunately, in keeping with the happy-ending traditions of operetta, no shots were fired and no one was hurt.

We await the final act when the grateful inhabitants gather to sing a fond adieu to their departing deliverers. But if the backers of this production really wanted to score a box-office smash, they should have written in parts for a tenor and a soprano.

Four honeymoon couples were seated at the same table in the hotel dining room. After dinner, while the men were engaged in conversation the four brides were left alone.

They decided that over breakfast the next day they would all tell how many affairs each had concluded the night before by using a code word. The code word would be "morning," and each would use that word as many times as was appropriate to indicate how many times they "did it."

The next morning, at breakfast, the first two brides greeted each other.

"Good morning," said the first.

"Good morning to you. What a beautiful morning it is," said the second.

The third couple arrived shortly afterwards. She greeted the first two with: "Good morning. My, what a lovely morning. It's the nicest morning I'veseen in a long time."

They all grinned knowingly, when finally, the fourth couple arrived. As they sat down, the fourth bride looked around gloomily and said: "What a lousy day!"

PRICE OF ANARCHY

Campus dissenters whose chief aim is disruption of university operation may be succeeding in a way they had not foreseen. In the last election, many bond issues and tax proposals having to do with education went down to defeat. In California, $250 million in bonds for construction in the State's troubled universities and colleges were turned down by the voters. Campus riots at Berkeley were given as one reason for the rejection. Tax increases to meet school needs were also defeated in many areas over the nation.

Evidently voters resent the use of tax-supported educational institutions as a breeding ground for riots and violence. The slowing down of the flow of tax funds for education is part of the price that everyone must pay when permissiveness becomes anarchy.

FREEDOM'S TECHNOLOGY

The first footsteps on the moon were American, a tribute to the versatility and ingenuity of Freedom's technology as exemplified only in Republic USA. Tyranny can build giant rockets and military machines by utilizing technology and technicians developed by Western capitalism, but the most awesome powers of tyranny have failed not only to feed, clothe and shelter its peoples, but failed also in their concentrated effort to claim the moon first for communism.

Despite the communists' most ardent efforts, and their head start in making the attempt to reach the moon first, they failed to beat American individual enterprise and the profit-motive system.

The communists decided even before World War II was over to capture all the German rocket experts possible in driving through the German rocket experimental station in Peenemunde. They captured two of the German's newest V-2 rockets, fully assembled with all their manuals and plans, along with hundreds of German technicians and scientists. They quickly built 400 copies of the V-2, from which research and development they built their first Sputnik satellite which so upset the American people when we discovered we were behind a technologically backward people in an important field.

The communists used captured experts and secret, forced labor to leap out ahead of the U.S., temporarily. But once the U.S. Army's rocket team was given the go-ahead, a U.S. satellite was put up in record time.

It has been American businesses competing against each other for design and construction contracts for the various Mercury, Gemini and Apollo space research projects which has enabled Republic USA to put the first men on the moon. HLH

Doc. Duncan Says

Seems like the wheel of fortune has made one. Complete revolution since the days of our forefathers the question now is will this wheel start another revolution? Or remain on dead center? In the beginning they could not manufacture a horse-shoe rail, they had to be imported, with a heavy import, duty or tax. As of today patented held by monopolites has about the same effect, and as to import to they possibly would be loaded with duty if they people began to bug autos, shoes, clothing, and others, needs in large quantities. This would be necessary to protect our feable labor and industry. So they say. So that leaves the same, old choice, bust following the boom of the sixties, same as the bust in the 30s following gh boom in the twenties, and guy that can't see it coming now is just afraid to look.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living:

Running down a rainy street hand in hand with someone you love ... The opening door of home after a long day at work ... Lying in bed at night and watching the strange patterns of light and dark made on the ceiling by cars passing outside ... Being patted awkwardly on the face by the fumbling fingers of a small child.

The feel of corduroy cloth and the gnarled bark of old oak trees ... The gleam of brass and old silver candlesticks ... Going on a picnic and coming back safe from a war ... Watching a brilliant summer lightning and thunder storm from a sheltered place ... Having someone else volunteer to do the dishes after a hearty meal.

Playing catch with a teenager and finding you're still able to hold on to the fast ones ... Entering any room where you know you'll be welcomed by someone you want to be welcome to ... Taking the last poker pot of the evening and leaving the game a winner ... Passing an annual physical examination that this year you feared you'd flunk for sure ... Paying an installment on a mortgage— just once—three days ahead of the due date.

Pigeons getting crumbs from pious old ladies on the steps of a cathedral ... Saucy squirrels seeking handouts in a public park ... The sound of running water and the sight of falling stars ... The historic ritual of scratching your initials with a tree branch on a page of fallen snow ... The wavering path of a breeze across a field of ripening wheat.

Poking around amid the halfforgotten treasures in the attic ... Coming across an old love letter and dropping everything to read it ... The stern, selfconscious look on yesterday's faces in the old family photograph album ... How odd will your own face look to the eyes that will gaze upon it some far tomorrow?

The placid acquiesence of elderly faces, no longer afraid of death or time ... The smell of frying bacon ... The scent of a clover field on a dewy morning ... The uncurling grace of a cat rising and stretching herself ... The feel of clean sheets ... A friendly note from the boss saying he'd been watching your work lately and was glad to see that you were at last doing some of it. Also in the note: a pay hike.

Chopping kindling wood for a home hearth ... Giving a graduation present to a high school girl, and being told by her in tears that it was the very thing she had most hoped for ... The excited squealing of tenement children taking a street shower from a fire plug ... Awaking in a bedroll at midnight on a mountainside, surrounded by all the awesome glory of the universe, and talking your heart out to that lonesome stranger, God.

DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON SAY: Sen. Long cherishes his tax prerogatives; blasts Ted Kennedy for meddling; Lobbyists and tax reformers gird for battle

WASHINGTON--Senate finance Chairman Russell Long erupted like a gusher in his native Louisiana tidelands when he first learned about Sen. Ted Kennedy's pln to introduce a comprehensive tax reform program.

Ever since Kennedy dethroned him as Senate democratic whip, long has bristled at even the mention of Kennedy's name. So when long found that Kennedy was meddling with taxes he really blew his top. Taxes are the sole prerogative of the Senate Finance Committtee.

Snorting fire, Long accosted Kennedy in the Senate Democratic cloakroom the other day. Breaking into a coversation between Kennedy and Iowa's Sen. Harold Hughes, long informed Kennedy testily that his tax proposals would never get the approval of the Finance Committee.

In that event, replied Kennedy, he would bring them up on the Senate floor as amendments to the tax bill.

Long asked derisively how many times Kennedy had been able to override the appointed committees on the Senate floor.

"How many have you won?" demanded Long.

His language was too explosive to be printed here. The sparks quickly spread through the Senate's backrooms, and a friend asked long what he had said.

"I told Kennedy to go fly a kite," said the Senator from Louisiana. Then he flashed the impish grin that has become a Long trademark and added: "But I used language that would be understood on the Louisiana wharves."

Meanwhile, the Senator from Louisiana is tryig to slow the Pellmell rush for tax reforms. The House Ways and Means Committee acted so swiftly that the Lobbyists for the special interests were caught by surprise.

In the past, they had been able to count on powerful house friends to sidetrack reforms. Not until it was too late did they realize that a tax reform bill was heading down the main track, straight to the house floor.

They will be unable to sabotage the bill on he floor. Under the closed rule of tax measures, the house must accept or reject the entire reform bill. The outcry from middle-income Americans for tax reforms will make it dangerous for any Congressman to vote against the bill.

As a result, he Lobbyists are suddenly swarming like summer tourists on the Senate side of Capitol Hill. Their only chance to head off reforms at this date is in the Senate, where the bill can be adorned with obscure clauses that will save their tax benefits.

It is largely up to Long to protect the tax loopholes. The Oil and Gas Industry in particular is counting upon him. Long is a big stockholder in the "Win Or Lose Oil Company" whose shares sell for $25,000. The oil boys were jolted by the 7½ per cent reduction voted by the House Ways and Means Committee, which previously had operated as a branch office of the oil industry. Long gave the Senate Democratic policy committee a preview of his strategy during a recent closed-door hassle over taxes. He argued at length that one Congress's loopholes were another Congress's reforms.

"While a great deal of attention is presently focused on the closing of loopholes," he said, "I can point to countless provisions of the tax law which prior congresses put there to close the loopholes of their time.

He made it cler that he intends to examine every reform carefully before he starts plugging loopholes. However, he is a populist in the image of his father, the late Huey "Kingfish" Long. Except for the oil industry, Russell Long can't be depended upon to safeguard the tax privileges of all the special interests.

He confided to the Democratic policymakers behind closed doors; "Certainly the rules governing the tax-exempt foundations are going to be tightened, and I am optimistic that a minimum income tax will be enacted to do something about the fellow who is financially able to juggle his income and deductions in a way as to avoid paying any federal income tax--or perhaps only a token tax.

"That sort of exploitation of the tax law is a direct consequence of wealth. It creates an unfair preference in favor of the man who is fortunate enough to make his money from the ownership of property as contrasted to people who earn their living with their hands."

--Simpler Tax Returns--

Long also wants to simplify the income tax returns.

"I'd like to offer every taxpayer," he told the Senate democratic policy committee, "A simplified method of reporting his income and paying his tax."

Nor has Long given up his idea of letting the taxpayers, instead of the special interests, pay for Presidential campaigns through a tax check-off system.

"Although the tax check-off was suspended a few months after it was enacted," he said, "It has focused the attention of the nation on a problem we are going to have to deal with, probably before the next Presidential Election in 1972."

Clearly, the struggle in the Senate between the Lobbyists and the reformers is going to be a classic. It will be interesting to see whether the special interests, with all their backroom lobbying and backdoor contributions, will be able to preserve their tax privileges.

Note--The tax lobby is banking upon Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen to save its tax exemptions in the final Senate showdown. Dirksen has built his Senate career upon championing the special interests, some of which are represented by his law firm back in Peoria.

Ann Landers

Hubby With Starry Eyes Watches Heavenly Bodies

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago my husband bought a telescope to study the stars – he said. After the fourth night he lost interest in the sky and is now studying other "heavenly bodies." We live in an apartment which is ideally situated for his new hobby. He hurries through dinner, races to the window and stays there four or five hours at a time.

Last week he invited three of the boys from the office to enjoy the fun. He was quite disappointed because his two best subjects for observation (he calls them Venus and Mars) were not at home. He promised the boys he'd invite them back.

I am disgusted with him and he knows it. I am also concerned that he might be breaking the law. I've heard of men being arrested as Peeping Toms. Please inform me. — Just Looking, Thanks

Dear Just: So long as Tom stays in his own apartment he cannot be arrested. In the meantime, be patient, dearie. Tom will tire of his hobby after a while. Growing up takes time.

Dear Ann: A distant relative of mine who is going through the menopause is acting very oddly. Six weeks ago she telephoned at 2:00 A.M. and asked, "Are you all right?" I said, "Yes, of course." She then related a terrible dream she had in which I was murdered. That was the end of my night's sleep.

A week later she telephoned at 6:00 A.M. and asked if I had called her. I said, "No." She then explained that her phone had rung and she heard a scream that sounded like my voice.

This past week she had telephoned five times, accused me of calling her and not speaking, just breathing into the phone. I'm sure the woman needs a psychiatrist. In the meantime I'm going to need one, too, if she doesn't quit bothering me. Any suggestions? — Pestered By A Nut

Dear Pes: Suggest that she see a doctor and get help. Then help yourself by getting an unlisted telephone number. It costs nothing.

Dear Ann: Our 11-year-old son's best friend, Joey, wants to admire his father and tries hard to justify his drinking. Last night he asked if I was against beer, "even if a person can drink 12 bottles in a row and still walk a straight line." He added with fake bravado, "My dad can do it!"

I gave a non-commital answer and then hated myself for not having the courage to tell the boy what heavy, continuous drinking can do to a person. How can I get the message across without running down his father, and incidentally, his mother, too? — Austin

Dear Austin: It is not your responsibility to "get the message across." A child's basic concepts are learned at home, not from the neighbors. When the boy asks leading questions tell him to talk to his parents. In the meantime some individuals who grew up around alcoholism hate liquor and never touch it. Others turn out to be second and third generation lushes, which gives the impression that alcoholism is hereditary. It is not, of course. It is a learned response to frustration, loneliness and insecurity.

Drinking may be "in" to the kids you run with – but it can put you "out" for keeps. You can cool it and stay popular. Read "Booze and You – For Teen-Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing, a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

The Gospel Visitor

By Reedus M. Baugher

Last week we had a first of a planned series of lessons, on the theme, "Dealing with the lost." We were seeking to point out the way of salvation, to those anxious to know, by studying actual cases of the lost being saved, in the days of the apostles. The first example we noticed was in the second chapter of Acts. Here in this city of Jerusalem, they were to began preaching, to lost man, the message of salvation. And according to the instruction of Christ the gospel was to be preached next to the Samaritans, then, unto the uttermost part of the earth. (Acts 1:8)

The apostles needed, and received help in spreading the gospel over the country. And thus, Luke, the historian, in the eighth chapter of acts tells of the persecution against the church at Jerusalem, that caused the disciples to be scattered. Verse four says, "they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word." Then we learn that Philip went down to the city of Samaria, "and preached Christ unto them." Some preached the word, some preached Christ, but, all were preaching the gospel. The same message which the apostles preached on Penecost.

The result of the work at Samaria is similar to that in Jerusalem at Penecost, the form of their obedience being precisely the same. In chapter 2, Luke states that, "They who gladly received his word were baptised;" and here he states, When they believe Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women." (vs. 12) Here we have a new class of subjects, among whom a worker for Christ was called to labour. Would the same glad message be proclaimed to them which had been proclaimed to the Jews? Would the same form of obedience be required and rendered as required before? We see from this record that there was no change in anything. There was the same message proclaimed, the same form of obedience rendered, and the same privileges enjoyed by these persons of mixed blood, as those of the fleshly seed of Abraham. We are also, informed of the conversion of Simon the sorcer. Simon also believed and was baptized we are told. some say to him," That he wasn't truely converted, since he fell from grace" But it seems Luke understood that he was. Luke's report of the case; gives a straight forward account of what Simon did, both of what was right and what was wrong. He saw the miracles, heard the proclamation, believed on Jesus, and was baptized. Now, all this was perfectly right, being done under Philip's teaching and direction. Simon started well, and if he had not yielded to temptation, he would have held on the course begun.

Housewives

housewives by jesse lynn
Webster tells us in so many words,
Just what a housewife means,
He says its a holder for needles and thread,
And scissors and buttons it seems.

I guess in a sense that's kinda true,
As we're stuck with the chores of the house,
Stuck with the dishes and stuck with the kids,
Yet thread our way through like a mouse.

We cut up the onions and cut off the grass,
And cut down the budget, we try,
We cut out the griping and button our lip,
To avoid little spats with our guy.

Webster has his meaning,
Now I'll show what the big book should say,
Here's a salute to all housewives,
So slip on your crown for the day.

You are a queen in her glory,
In all sizes and weights you appear,
Even though you may not quite believe it,
You enjoy every minute each year.

You're found in all sorts of new places,
On the floor with mopping to do,
Burning the trash or closets you clean,
And especially in hearts around you.

You're purity with onions stinging your eyes,
And Wisdom with a budget that's shot,
You're beauty with flour spots still on your nose,
And curlers you must have forgot.

The children look up to you with such pride,
You're adored by your friends far and near,
Heaven blesses you every day,
And to father you're specially dear.

You like peace and quiet and soft music too,
The paycheck that comes in is great,
You love when its naptime just after lunch,
And a night on the town with your mate.

You don't like for people to track up the floors,
And the salesmen who come to your door,
Five in the mornings and bills every month,
And spring cleaning you'd rather ignore.

You're a creature of magical wonder,
As in one day you play many parts,
A teacher, a playmate, a nurse and a cook,
And a doorman when home father carts.

But when he walks in and says with a grin,
"Hi honey, I'm home, how's your day?"
You know you are surely a beautiful queen,
And a queen you always will stay.

New Uniforms For UN Guides

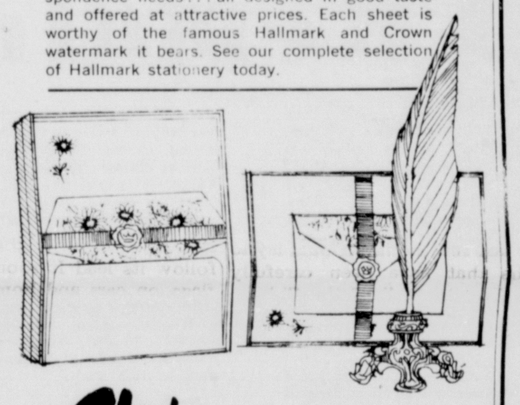

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The United Nations displayed a new uniform for its 100 girl guides which it said took months of preparation. Some of the girls seemed to question if it was worth the bother.

The uniform features a royal blue miniskirt, white blouse with full-length sleeves and a deep, wide collar, and a long, sleeveless Pilgrim - style tunic in gold with brass buttons. The fabrics are dacron and wool.

Some of the guides called it "deglamorizing" and said they would have to shape the tunics to their figures to offset that. "Some of us have had to shorten the skirt," said Soheila Garrett, an attractive Iranian guide.

It replaces the bright blue dress with white ascot worn by the young, multinational and multilingual guides for the past 18 months. That one shrank, said the girls.

4 Remain

PARMA -- Semi-final round play begins at 7 p.m. tonight in the Babe Ruth invitational baseball tournament as Oran and Lilbourn battle. New Madrid and Risco meet at 9 p.m. after pulling off wins last night, New Madrid 9-0 over Vanduser and Risco 6-2 over Benton.

Pitching has paved the way for the four finalest and tonight's games should be pitching dules.

Fred Copeland hurled a two-hitter as New Madrid shutout Vanduser 9-0 with the help of a five run sixth inning. In that frame New Madrid failed to hit as Vanduser committed three of its five errors.

A two-hitter was hurled by John Bunting as Risco won 6-2 with the held of a four run third frame.

Craig Filter cracked a fifth inning home run for Benton, the third round-tripper of the tournament and first since opening night play.

TEACHERS EMMIGRATING

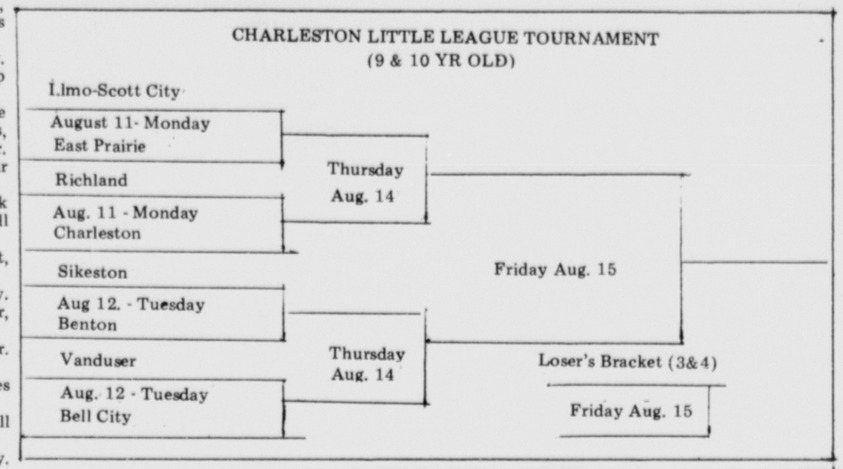

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — About 600 U.S. teachers are expected to arrive in Israel with their families in July as immigrants, the Jewish Agency, in charge of immigration, announced here.

They will undergo a six-month Hebrew language course, and another six months of training in Israeli schools before starting work, probably in 1970, the agency said.

Chaffee took the Little League's nine and ten year old division championship title of Sikeston's Invitational Tournament last night with a 6-4 victory over Illmo-Scott City.

Sikeston All-Stars defeated the Sikeston Aces for third place in the tourney by a 14-3 margin.

Davidson took the win for the All-Stars while Jackson suffered the loss for the Aces.

Stars came up with a total of 10 hits against only five for the Aces. Only extra base hits of the battle came from the Stars and included two doubles by Glover and one each by Hampton and Davidson.

In the championship game, Chaffee led the hitting as it accumulated a total of 10 hits compared to only three for Illmo-Scott City.

McGuire became Chaffee's leading hitter of the contest with a home run and a double. Eftink also belted a double for the winning squad.

Wachter received the pitching win from the mound while Dohogne was endowed with the loss.

Good Sportsmanship trophey for the tournament went to Illmo-Scott City.

Two outstanding player selections were awarded to Allan Davidson of the Sikeston All-Stars and Lindy Duncan of Chaffee.

Players receiving honorable mention as outstanding players were Hal Butler of the Aces, Larry Stricker of the Aces, Charlie Miller of Illmo-Scott City, Rick Dohogne of Illmo-Scott City, Billy Hampton of the All-Stars, Scott Wachter of Chaffee, and Jay McGuire of Chaffee.

Dexter, Charleston In Finals

POPLAR BLUFF -- Dexter and Charleston will battle for the championship of the Babe Ruth invitational baseball tournament here tonight after Sikeston and Poplar Bluff decide the consolation in a 7 p.m. match.

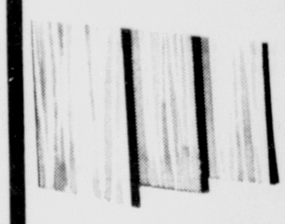

Dexter made the most of three hits as it scored a 4-3 win over the host with Matthews picking up the win in relief of Huffman. Cates was the loser.

Simmons and Pierce teamed to pitch Charleston past Sikeston with Simmons picking up the win. Sikeston was held to four hits and five runs while Charleston was scoring eight runs on eight hits and handling Collins the loss. The game was shortened because of an hour and 45 minute time limit.

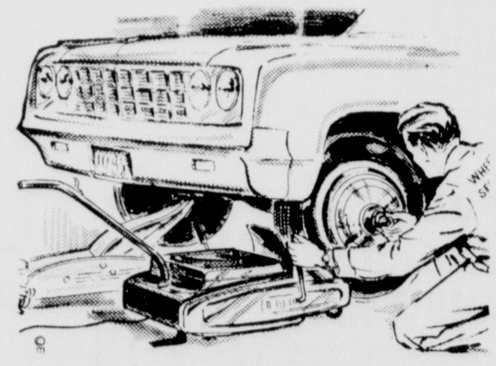

Charleston scored five runs in the second and added three in the fourth while Sikeston struggled to put one run up in the third and added four in the fifth.

Now Is Time to Plan Fall Garden

CARUTHERSVILLE -- Now is the time to begin planting your fall garden says W. F. James, extension agriculture agent. Usually they can be planted in the space vacated by your spring vegetables such as peas and potatoes, and if you have plenty of water available for irrigation during the month of August you can have a mighty fine fall garden. In fact, it could be your best garden, but without irrigation water you had better limit your fall planting to one or two favorite vegetables.

Generally the last week of July and the first week of August is the best time to plant a fall garden. Vegetables that take a rather long season to reach edible maturity would include bush beans, early maturing sweet corn, broccoli, caulflowers and root crops such as beets, carrots and turnips. And you might plant leafy vegetables such as endive, kale, cabbage and Chinese cabbage, also kohlrabi. These need to be planted not later than the first week of August. A few vegetables that reach edible maturity quickly can be planted nearly any time during August. These include leaf lettuce, radishes, spinach, mustard and turnip greens. In fact, you can make several plantings of these vegetables if you wish.

Since the last week of July and most of August is generally hot and dry in Missouri, irrigation is essential in establishing a fall garden. Use your irrigation water wisely. First, irrigate heavily before planting the garden. This may sound foolish, but you will find that if you start out with a moist seedbed you will be more likely to get good germination and a good stand of seedling plants. So make sure the upper foot of soil is moist before planting your fall garden.

After sowing the seed be prepared to keep the upper inch of soil moistened until seed has germinated. This means light applications of water in mid or late afternoon, probably each day unless rainy or cloudy weather prevails.

Insects can cause considerable damage to young seedlings. Flea beetles, leaf hoppers and cabbage worms are usually most troublesome. For the first week or two after seedlings are up it would pay to spray them with a methoxychlor and malathion mixture at least twice a week.

Speaking of insects, be on the lookout for spider mites on many summer Vegetables. These are tiny sucking insects that generally inhabit the undersides of leaves. They are light tan in color ane crawl around on fine webs. They are hard to see. If you see the foilage on your plants take on a dull, yellowish or grayist cast, look closely for spider mites; they probably are there. Malathion wettable powder should be used for control of these insects. Use a rounded tablespoon per gallon of water and spray every three days for three successive sprays. Get good coverage of the spray material, expecially the undersides of the leaves. Remember spider mites are mostly on the undersides of the leaves.

If you want to maintain size of your late tomatoes give them a sidedressing of nitrogen. Use about one pound of ammonium nitrate per 100 feet of row. Spread the nitrogen in a band along the edge of the foliage or burning will result. If you don't get a rain, water the nitrogen in. Then use plenty of water and you will find your late tomatoes will grow to a pretty good size.

Four Million Pounds of Food For Missourians

CHICAGO - Around four million pounds of U. S. Department of Agriculture-donated foods reached nearly 146,000 persons in Missouri during June, according to Dennis M. Doyle, Midwest district director of Consumer Food Programs.

Participants included 70,674 certified public welfare recipients and 75,310 other low-income persons. The Commodity Distribution Program operated in 67 Missouri areas during the month.

In 11 Midwest states, around 350,000 persons participated in 296 commodity areas.

Each month those taking part in the program receive free donations of USDA food through the local offices of Missouri's Department of Public Health and Welfare. An average of 27 pounds of food per person was distributed during June.

Foods available were canned whole chickens, processed cheese, canned turkey, chopped meat, canned beef, canned tomatoes, tomato juice, canned peas and dry potatoes. Others included flour, cornmeal, grits, bulgar, rolled oats, rice, dry and evaporated milk, lard/shortening, butter, corn syrup, raisins, dried prunes, prune juice, grapefruit juice, peanut butter, scrambled egg mix, corn, green beans and dry beans.

City of Malden Pledges $10,000 to Chamber Program

MALDEN — The City Council agreed Monday night to underwrite the Malden Chamber of commerce to the extent of $10,000 for the next fiscal year if the money is available. The money would be contributed by the Board of Public Works and the Airport Board to help finance the operation of the Chamber. Last year the Board of Public Works contributed $5,000 and the Airport Board $3,000.

Ronald Dye, newly elected president of the Chamber, and J. D. Byrum, past president, appeared before the council to request the financial support. They presented each member of the Counci with a copy of an industrial brochure that recently was prepared by the Chamber and outlined the plans and goals for the 1969- 70 fiscal year.

In the other action, the Council approved an ordinance to provide for oiling, repairing, surfacing, and re- surfacing of certain streets within the City of Malden. The city will be divided into districts for these projects. Contracts will be let and costs will be assessed to property owners through special tax bills.

A list of the streets appeared in the July 16 issue of the Press-Merit.

Malden Rejects All Fire Station Bids

MALDEN — All bids for the construction of a new fire station at the Malden Airport were rejected by the City Council at a special session held Friday, July 18.

The bids were rejected after several of the bidding contractors pointed out that the plans and misleading with several mistakes evident. The plans and specifications had not been prepared by an architect. Some of the bidders indicated that they had made necessary changes on heir own initiative.

After some discussion the Council decided to reject all bids. The plans and specifications will be redrawn and resubmitted to the same bidders.

Bids submitted were as follows: Johnson Construction Company, $20,230, Rogers Construction Co., $27,895; Joe Walker, $29,000; J. W. Githens Co., $34,000; and Smith and Livingston, $36,495.

Residents of Malden approved a $50,000 bond issue last November for the purcahse of a new fire truck and the construction of a fire station at the Airport. The truck has been ordered and is expected to arrive about September.

A set of plans for the fire station was prepared by Bill green, local engineer, and submitted to Mayor Sparrel Davis and the City Council last April on the night that Davis took office as mayor. Mayor Davis refused to accept the plans and said that the matter would be taken up later.

Green has not been requested to resubmit his plans and no explanation has been forthcoming from Mayor Davis.

Millions for Housing To Pour into Cairo

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie announced today a $5 million community sponsored housing program is being planned for low- income families in Cairo.

A state grant of $290,000 from the Illinois Housing Development Authoritity will provide immediate funds for the program.

Plans call for construction of approximately 250 family units dispersed through the community and owned by a local not- for-profit housing development corporation, Ogilvie said.

A 10- member biracial board will be set up to run the corporation.

The state grant will be used for site acquisition, staff salaries, architectural work and arranging long - ange private financing.

Federal housing and urban developments funds will provide a loan guarantee and an interest subsidy that will result in a loan cost of only one per cent, the governor said.

"I am extremely hopeful that a beginning has been made that will lead to real progress in Cairo," Ogilvie said.

Widow Bequeaths Money to Reduce U.S., Kansas Debts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Sabetha, Kan., widow has left the federal government and Kansas $55,657.79 each to reduce their debts.

The action of the widow, Mrs. Mattie Meisner who died April 27, 1968, was reported to the House Thursday by Rep. Chester L. Mize, R-Kan.

Mize said he had been requested by the executors of Mrs. Meisner's estate to act as the middleman in turning over the check to the Treasury Department. He said the Kansas treasury has already received its bequest.

Mize, noting that the national debt is in excess of $358 billion, said:

"Even though Mrs. Meisner's bequest will make only an infinitesimal payment on the liquidation of this obligation, I just want to observe that her gesture is typical of patriotic, frugal Americans who live in the cities and farms of Kansas."

Forms Available For Drug Refunds

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Forms are now available for Missouri consumers to claim refunds on tetracyclene drugs bought between 1954 and 1966. About $800,000 is available to missourians.

Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth said the forms are available at his offices in Jefferson City, Kansas City or St. Louis. They must be mailed to the U. S. District Court in New York by midnight Aug. 16.

Lyndon B. Johnson was first elected to the U.S. Senate in November, 1948, with an 87-vote margin over Gov. Stevenson of Texas.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—Why are string puppets often called "marionettes," a word of French origin?

A—It comes from the religious puppet plays of the Middle Ages in which one of the puppet characters represented the Virgin Mary. The name "Little Mary, or marionette," came to be given the other puppets.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Sponge Rubber Pillow Eases Her Back Strain

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for anyone who does a lot of typing or desk work and does not have a regular typing or desk chair. I take a sponge rubber pillow off the bed (any kind that is not too bulky will do), slip the pillowcase and all over the back of a narrow-backed chair with the pillow side against your back. You have all the support needed. A special heavy slip of colored material could be made for such a pillow and then it could be used as a floor cushion when not needed for a chair back. Before hitting on this I had typer's hunch, sitter's sciatica and a strained expression. Thanks to you, Polly, and all the contributors for the many Pointers that make my daily tasks lighter.—MARY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Could someone tell me how to replace the elastic on men's shorts? The bands always give out when the rest is still good.—MRS. E. P.

DEAR POLLY — When doing some wool embroidery on heavy burlap I used a good needle with a long eye but had a hard time threading it. I folded a piece of the wrapper that came around the wool into a piece just wide enough to hold a piece of the yarn and that would easily go through the eye of the needle. When threading, simply put the yarn in the fold of the paper, pass the paper through the needle eye, remove the paper and pull yarn through the desired length. Works like a charm.—E. A. A.

DEAR POLLY—I do a lot of sewing for my own family and take in some extra, too. I reserve a whole day just for cutting. I have an electric scissors and cut out everything I am going to sew on in the near future. After cutting each garment, I place the cut material, the pattern, leftover pieces, zippers, thread and so on in a plastic bag and pin it shut. This way everything is together, nothing is misplaced or lost, the cutting is done and when I start to sew it goes in a whiz.—PAT

By W. F. JAMES

CARUTHERSVILLE -- On many Pemiscot and Dunklin County Farms Johnson Grass has practically dissapeared because a regular control program has been followed. Similarly the amount of Johnson grass on rights of way, for roads and ditches has been greatly reduced. On the otherhand Johnson grass is showing very prominently again on some farms and on some rights of way. Johnson grass left undistrubed can take over a farm. Either you control it or it will control you.

The very fact that farms that used to be covered with Johnson grass are now free of it is proof that it can be licked.

If you have Johnson grass problem there is not a better time than now to start your control program. The important thing is to plan a Johnson grass eradication program and stay with it.

The University of Missouri Extension Division has published three separate guides: "Getting Acquainted with Johnson Grass", "Johnson Grass control for Roadsides and Similiar Areas", and "Johnson Grass control in row crops.". These are available free at any Missouri County University of Missouri Extension Center.

The information in these publications is based on research at the Delta Research farm at Portageville and in other parts of the state. Hundreds of farmers in the area who have followed the University recommendations for Johnson grass control will attest that the methods will get results.

In row crop areas, where an early summer crop is removed or where land has been fallowed and Johnson grass is a problem, here is a suggested program. Manage the field so the Johnson grass will have a vigorous growth of about 12 inches in late October. Spray the Johnson grass with 10 pounds of Dowpon (7.4 pounds dalapon acid equivalent) per acre when air temperature is above 70 degrees F. Plow the land 3 to 5 days after the treatment. Plan to use a preemergence chemical for seedling Johnson grass control in the spring. Also spot treat with Dowpon to control those clumps of established Johnson grass that survivied the fall treatment. Three of these program can given complete control of a badly infested field.

A more detailed description of how to control Johnson grass under all conditions may be had by ordering the three publications mentioned above from your University of Missouri Extension Center.

Meat Packing Firm Inspections Resume

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said that it has reinstated federal meat inspection at Hillcrest Packing Co. in Bonne Terre, Mo., effective July 25. The inspection and plant approval was suspended July 16 because of what officials called unsanitary conditions.

Federal law requires that meat shipped in interstate and foreign commerce be federally inpected and handled under sanitary conditions.

The Consumer and Marketing Service said federal inspection was restored after an examination disclosed that the plant met federal inspection requirements.

The Airport Board will meet the third Monday night of each month.

What We Think About It

By Lt. Colonel Norman E. May
of Warwick, Bermuda

"I don't need to go so far afield to look for that meaning. I am a teacher, and at Harvard I have a class of about three hundred and fifty students -- men and women – most of them freshmen and sophomores. Over these past few years, I have felt increasingly that something is terribly wrong -- and this year ever so much more than last. Something has gone sour, in teaching and in learning. It's almost as though there were a widespread feeling that education has become irrelevant.

"A lecture is much more of a dialogue than many of you probably realize. As you lecture, you keep watching the faces, and information keeps coming back to you all the time. I began to feel, particulary this year, that I was missing much of what was coming back. I tried asking the students, but they didn't or couldn't help me very much.

"But I think I know what's the matter. I think that this whole generation of students is beset with a profound uneasiness, and I don't think that they have yet quite defined its source. I think I understand the reason for their uneasiness even better than they do. What is more, I share their uneasiness.

"What's bothering those students? Some of them tell you it's the Vietnam war. I think the Vietnam war is the most shameful episode in the whole of American history. The concept of war crimes is an American invention. We've commited many war crimes in Vietnam -- but I'll tell you something interesting about that. We were committing war crimes in World War II, before the Nuremberg trials were held and the principal of war crimes was stated. The saturation bombing of German cities was a war crime. Dropping those atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki was a war crime. If we had lost the war, it might have been our leaders, who had to answer for such actions. I've gone through all that history lately, and I find that there's a gimmick in it. Is isn't written out, but I think we established it by precedent. That gimmick is that if one can allege that one is repelling or retaliating for an aggression, after that everything goes.

"And, you see, we are living in a world in which all wars are wars of defense. All War Departments are now Defense Departments. This is all part of the doubletalk of our time. The aggressor is always on the other side. I suppose this is why our ex-Secretary of State Dean Rusk went to such pains to insist, as he still insists, that in Vietnam we are repelling an aggression. And if that's what we are doing -- so runs the doctrine -- everything goes. If the concept of war crimes is ever to mean anything, they will have to be defined as categories of acts, regardless of alleged provocation. But that isn't so now.

"I think we've lost that war, as a lot of people think, too. The Vietnamese have a secret weapon. It's their willingness to die beyond our willingness to kill. In effect, they've been saying, You can kill us, but you'll have to kill a lot of us; you may have to kill all of us. And, thank heaven, we are not yet ready to do that.

If You Were the Judge

Dentist Must Not Injure in Restraint

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Dr. Pullum couldn't have been more proper if he had been brought up under the tutelage of Little Orphan Annie. Consequently, when the lovely Miss Jones slithered into his office, he didn't bat an eyelash. He sat her down in his dental chair, put her under gas and went to work on her.

While she was conscious, however, and Dr. Pullman was probing around her mouth, Miss Jones suddenly grabbed the startled dentist in a very private area and refused to let go.

Struggling for his virtue, Dr. Pullum strenuously attempted to free himself of his patient's vise-like grip. When he finally broke loose, he also broke Miss Jones' index finger. And when she came out of the gas and found that she could point at right angles, she sued Dr. Pullum for her broken finger.

"Believe me, I didn't break it on purpose," the harried dentist insisted in court. "I was only defending myself. I'm only a poor little defenseless dentist."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the poor little defenseless dentist pay Miss Jones for her broken finger?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that a dentist must take precautions to prevent injury to his patients as well as himself. In this case, concluded the judge, had Dr. Pullum used wrist straps or some other restraining device on Miss Jones when putting her to sleep, the incident could have been avoided.

Pemiscot Hospital Accredited

HAYTI — Pemiscot County Memorial Hospital in Hayti has received its accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, it was announced by Jack Tipton, hospital administrator.

The notice of accreditation came last week, marking the first time the hospital has been accredited since it was built in 1951. Four national medical and hospital organizations comprise the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals - the American College of Physicians; the American College of Surgeons; the American Hospital Association; and the American Medical Association.

Tipton said the hospital has been accredited for three years with no probation, pointing out that a hospital is usually accredited for a one year period at a time, and put on probation.

Application for accreditation was first made by hospital officials in 1967, when some 47 deficiencies were found. At the last check, only 10 deficiencies were found.

Tipton praised the cooperation of all employes and doctors to erase the deficiencies from the original report.

The Prayer
from
The Upper Room

Fix your minds on whatever is true and honrable and just and pure and lovely and praiseworthy. (Philippians 4:8, Phillips)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, we ask Thee to touch our hearts and minds. Forgive us our sins, which bind us like a chain. Help us to live for Thee in love and kindness to our fellowman. We thank Thee through Christ, our Redeemer. Amen.

Taxless Travel

CHICAGO (AP) — Summertime travel could be a form of education that is a tax deductible expense and should not be overlooked, says Commerce Clearing House, a tax law authority.

There are no particular limitations on the extent of the travel or the amount of money the educational expense might incur.

A high school mathematics teacher, for example, who travels from Milwaukee to a university in California during the summer to take special courses in mathematics, could claim an income tax deduction, although he played golf or participated in other personal activities.

Travel expense, as well as the costs of meals and lodging, would be deductible as ordinary and necessary business expenses.

The bee hummingbird of Cuba, measuring 2¼ inches in length, is the world's smallest bird.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 1, the 213th day of 1969. There are 152 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1514, Germany declared war on Russia at the outbreak of World War I.

On this date:

In 1502, Christopher Columbus landed in what is now Honduras.

In 1790, the first U.S. census was taken.

In 1794, the Whiskey Rebellion in Pennsylvania broke out. The revolt against a tax on whiskey was put down by troops dispatched by President George Washington.

In 1876, Colorado became the 38th state.

In 1907, an aeronautics division was set up in the U.S. Army Signal Corps. The U.S. Air Force traces its beginning to this date.

In 1946, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission was established.

Ten years ago — Vice President Richard M. Nixon, visiting the Soviet Union, made a broadcast in which he called for "a just peace based on mutual respect."

Five years ago — The space agency said pictures taken by a Ranger spacecraft showed the moon's surface was suitable for a landing by man.

One year ago — The U.S. government tried to force a rollback of steel price increases by limiting purchases by the military.

Official Visits Rotary Club

DEXTER — The Rev. Harold Nance of Flat River, new District 609 governor of Rotary, paid an official visit to the Dexter club Tuesday evening.

The dinner meeting was held at the Bootheel Cafe and was under the direction of club president Jim Smith.

Rev. Nance discussed with he group problems within Rotary and problems in general, pointing out ways to cope with problems of today in any field. Rev. Nance is a retired Methodist minsiter and former Dexter pastor.

Dr. Frank Sisson of Phoenix, Ariz., and formerly of Sikeston, nephew of Dr. J. H. Sisson, Dexter, was a guest of the club.

New Owner for Sewing Circle

The Necchi Sewing Circle, 118 South Ranney St., changed ownership yesterday.

Leroy Berkbigler, Cape Girardeau, bought the business from William Kibler, also of Cape Girardeau.

Kibler owns a Necchi Store in Cape Girardeau, and he will run that store exclusively now.

Berkbigler has managed the Sikeston store for Kibler eight years.

Mrs. Doris Riley, Blodgett, who has worked with Berkbigler, will continue to work at the Sewing Circle.

County Board Holds Hearings

BLOOMFIELD — The Stoddard County Board of Equalization was forced to extend their initial assessment hearing this week, because of an unexpected influx of landowners from Pike Township.

Pike had been scheduled for two days of hearings July 21 and 22. However, an unusually large number of persons forced the Board to re- schedule the additional hearings for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. County Court Clerk Marvin Capps estimated that there were more property owners from Pike Township attending the Board hearings than from all other townships combined.

The county as forced to raise the assessment level in Stoddard County $5 million, and Pike was one of those hit by the raises. Gus Scherer is assessor in Pike Township. Board of Equalization hearings are to hear complaints about assessments.

Turnout by resident of other townships was termed "average."

Following the Board of Equalization hearings, the Board of Appeals will meet on the following schedule:

Aug. 11 - Elk Township
Aug. 12- Duck Creek and New Lisbon
Aug. 13- Pike
Aug. 14- Liberty
Aug. 15 -Castor

The Board of Equalization is composed of the three members of the County Cour - Clyde Henson, Jack Ward and Lefler Lee -- plus the surveyor, Loyd Garner, and the assessor of the concerned township.

All meetings are being held in the court room, first floor of the courthouse.

Jaycee Wives Hear of Seals

DEXTER — Dexter Jaycee Wives met Monday night at the Ronald Cox Office Building. Present were two visitors, Mrs. Julie Minton and Mrs. Pam Kruse.

The Jaycee Wives car wash was discussed. It will be held Friday, August 1 at the Downtown Phillips "66" Service Station. Other items of business were discussed including an amendment to the constitution.

Gifts were presented during the evening to two new mothers in the club, Mrs. Don Powers and Mrs. Don Baker.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mrs. Kreyling of the Easter Seal Society. She gave a very interesting and informative talk on the purpose of the Easter Seal Society. The Jaycee Wives will be doing some work for the Easter Seal Society in the coming year.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Joyce Minton and Mrs. Kay Hall.

Riverview Museum to Open in September

CARUTHERSVILE — The committees working on the new Pemiscot County Riverview Museum project are all reporting good results. It is hoped that the museum will be open to the public by the early part of September.

Mrs. Lucille Fike, chairman of the M.C.B. committee in charge of the Riverview Museum stated that collections were doing well. Asked how many items had already been donated, Mrs. Fike pointed out that she had no idea but stated that there were very many.

Equipment from World War I, churns, pressed glass, flat irons, shoe lasts twists, and other items are some of the newest donations to the museum. Mrs. Fike said they were in the process of labeling all of the antiques.

As far as the building is concerned, lighting is about all that is left to be done. Mrs. Fike stated that McClendon construction workers had just completed work on the doors. Some of the old doors were taken out, but the double doors in the front of the building were not standard size and they will remain, fronted by a custom made storm type door. These old doors were used for railway purposes, loading and unloading.

Members of the Key Club at Caruthersville High School have also been active over the past week cleaning out some of the lumber and other material that was left in the building.

In an earlier report, it was stated that Museum officials would like to have a parade down Ward Avenue in honor of the museum, but Mrs. fike stated that no plans for this have been made at the present time.

16 in Race For Councilman

EAST PRAIRIE — Two late Friday filings for city councilman has increased the number of candidates to sixteen in the primary election which will be held Tuesday.

From this sixteen, ten men will be chosen and then in the general election August 19th the number will be narrowed to five men who will serve as city councilmen under the new manager type of city government.

The vocations of the sixteen men filing for the position of councilman in the new city manager form of government, are very diversified, included are Marvin Baker, retired policeman; Jones W. Hedge, owner of Rexall store; H. G. Davis, plumber; Harry L. Lewis, antique dealer; David Brumley, barber; Lloyd Hogan, former mayor and businessman; K. G. Whittington, owner of body shop; Dr. A. L. Weaver, Doctor of Osteopathy; Freemont McTigue, contractor; Ernest Douglas, groceryman; Davis Sairs, school bus driver; Jack Adkisson, farmer; Carleton E. Lucas, surveyor; Frank Carter, plumber and former mayor; H. H. "Granny" Russell, retired barber and Billy M. Reeves, insurance and real estate dealer.

As stated last week, those seeking election are entitled to electioneer in their race for office but, after election, must file a sworn statement of expense.
